HOUSE AND SENATE MEMBERS ARRIVE ON EVERY TRAIN

Owing to Sharp Contests the General Assembly Appears on the Scene Earlier Than Usual.

BURWELL STOCK SEEMS TO BE IN ASCENDANT

Anderson, of Chatham, Declares He Will Have 28 Pledged Senators in Caucus Tomorrow.

Owing to the interest felt in the contests for the presidency of the senate and speakership of the house, members of both branches of the general assembly are arriving in Atlanta unusually early for the session this year. Fifteen or twenty were added last night to the number of representatives who are already on hand, and several senators also arrived.

It is estimated that there were as many as forty of the membership of the new house in the city Sunday night, and this number will probably be increased to nearly a hundred during the day. Of the other branch there were as many as ten or a dozen members in town.

Sheppard, of Sumter, Arrives.

The third and last to arrive of the speakership candidates, J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter, presented himself Sunday night, and was very busily engaged meeting his friends in the lobby of the Kimball and making up for lost time. When questioned as to his chances in the race, he declared that he was very much in the running, and that whatever might be the general impression to the contrary, he would be elected.

"I believe that I have the bulge on my friend, Bob Hardeman, of Jefferson," he said, "and that my chances of coming in after the first ballot is taken are excellent."

Mr. Sheppard declared that he would not secure headquarters as the other candidates had, but his friends would know where to find him just the same.

Burwell the Favorite.

The general impression as to the outcome of the speakership race remains unchanged, and that is that W. H. Burwell, of Hancock, will be elected. Members of the house who are going to vote for the other two candidates declared Sunday night that Burwell would be the winner. This impression that Burwell would be the lucky man naturally tended to boost the Hancock representative's stock, as new members who have never served in the house with either of the three candidates are more interested in securing good committee assignments for themselves than they are in electing a speaker, and they feel that they will stand a better chance by voting for the winner.

The only hope of the other two candidates is that Mr. Burwell will not secure enough votes on the first ballot to put him over. In that event, the man who polls the largest number of votes in opposition to Burwell will stand a chance of election, that is, if he can unite the opposition on himself when the low man withdraws. This furnishes incentive enough to create a very lively contest between Hardeman and Sheppard to see who will stand higher on the first count.

Hardeman Second Best.

Both of these men are now making an active canvass, and they declare that they will be in the fight to the end. Both have friends who declare that the result is by no means a foregone conclusion.

After the speakership fight is settled, there will be a lively contest in the house for the speakership pro tem. There are four announced candidates in the field for this position. They are E. H. McMichael, of Marion; Dr. A. S. J. Stovall, of Elbert; John C. Foster, of Floyd, and John P. Cheney, of Cobb. The first of these candidates to appear on the scene was Mr. McMichael, who was registered at the Piedmont Sunday. He declared that he was quite confident of his election, as he had already received more than

Keep the Babies Cool and Cosy.

Babies require particular care during the hot weather, not only in the matter of clothing, but in food as well, as every intelligent mother knows.

It frequently happens, however, that mothers are at a loss where to buy babies' clothing, because picking out anything for baby is always a momentous choice.

The best thing for a young mother to do when in doubt is to follow the advertisements in The Constitution.

These announcements usually tell her all about clothes for the little ones, from the tot in the cradle to the little sun-browned scamperer on the highways.

Very often an advertisement contains the news of the sale of precisely what you require at a price that is a pleasant surprise.

Some mothers make a habit of cutting out all advertisements relating to baby clothes and then visiting certain stores when they are ready to purchase.

When you see something you need advertised by a reputable house at an attractive price you are safe in buying at once.

Aged Man Drops Dead In Church as Pastor Begins Sunday Sermon

William B. Maner Succumbs to Attack of Heart Failure in Collins Springs Baptist Church.

While attending the Collins Springs Baptist church, William B. Maner, aged 65, dropped dead of heart failure Sunday morning shortly after Rev. H. G. Mitchell opened his sermon on "Think Ye of the Lord While Yet Ye May Be Found." Mr. Maner was a watchman of the Western and Atlantic road.

He is survived by a wife and eight children, Perry, Sanford, James, Mandy and Johnnie May Maner, and Mrs. J. B. Byfield, Mrs. Jesse Simpkins, and Mrs. R. A. Grizzard.

The funeral will be from the residence, 6 Guyton street, at 10:30 o'clock this morning, and interment will be in the Collins Springs churchyard.

50 PERSONS ARE HURT IN A RAILROAD WRECK

Some in Serious Condition—Excursion Train Rolls Down Embankment.

Rochester, N. Y., June 22.—Fifty persons were injured, some of them seriously, when a Pennsylvania railroad excursion train was derailed near Sterling station at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The train was filled with excursionists bound for Olean, Rock City and Bradford, Pa.

While the train was running at about 40 miles an hour three of the five coaches left the track, rolling down an embankment. As it rounded a curve the smoking car left the track, followed by all but two rear coaches. The locomotive also remained on the track, breaking away from the train after dragging the coaches about 200 feet.

Physicians and nurses were rushed to the scene from Rochester and other near-by towns, nd the most seriously injured were hurried to hospitals at Sonyea and in this city.

Practically all the injured were residents of this city. It is not believed any of them are fatally hurt.

It was said that District Attorney Frank K. Cook would be refused permission to examine the wreck when he arrived at the scene. Railroad officials had thrown a cordon of employees about it, and Mr. Cook could not get within 20 feet of the nearest car. Mr. Cook said he had every reason to believe that bad ties were directly responsible for the wreck. The track construction was very faulty, he declared.

After the district attorney had returned home a message brought him word that the railroad men were going to burn the ties for a hundred yards on both sides of the wreck. Mr. Cook, accompanied by Sheriff Acond, rushed back to the spot in an automobile. They found that the line had been thrown together in an adjoining field, but a railroad man said this was done to get them out of the way. Sheriff Acond demanded that the officials refrain from burning any ties or cars.

Mr. Cook had requested the public service commission to conduct an immediate investigation.

BARBER OF MACON PENS WIFE LETTER AND DRINKS ACID

Macon, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—John D. Lester, a well-known barber, committed suicide here this morning by swallowing carbolic acid while alone in a shop on Mulberry street, where he had been working.

Just before taking the poison Lester scrawled a note to his wife, but did not finish it.

The note said:

"My Darling: I could not endure it any longer. I regret what I am doing and I hope you will not do—

"J. D. L."

What Lester intended his wife should not do, no one knows. The man is said to have been drinking heavily recently and had gotten in debt. About two years ago he married Miss Mary B. Stevens, of Macon. He came here eight years ago from Alabama. No children survive.

Festival of Turnerbund.

Denver, Col., June 22.—The official opening of the thirty-first annual festival of the North American Turnerbund, Bundes Turnefest, will be held on the state capitol grounds on Wednesday, the first two days of the week being devoted to receptions of the incoming visitors, and especially of the athletes, gymnasts and singers who will take part in the various competitive drills, choruses and exhibitions.

Income Tax Encourages Babies; Hits Bachelors and Old Maids

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 22.—(Special.)—In the income tax section of the tariff bill, as perfected by the finance committee last night, bachelors and old maids are discriminated against and babies are encouraged.

Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, chairman of the subcommittee which considered the income tax, favors taxing bachelors and bachelor maids. Whether the other members of the committee shared his views, the effect of the work is the same.

Unmarried persons are taxed on all income in excess of $3,000. Married persons are taxed on income over $4,000. In other words, an extra exemption of $1,000 is allowed for the wife, and an exemption of $500 is allowed for each of two children. The family income is combined for the purpose of levying the tax.

Thus, if a man has an income of $5,000 and his wife has a separate income of $2,000, they will pay on an excess of $3,000. If they have two or more children they will pay on only $2,000 a year. Whether it is cheaper to get married and avoid the tax or stay single and pay the tax-gatherer is left to the individual to decide. Uncle Sam encourages matrimony and child-

CLASPING HANDS, BOYS MEET DEATH AT NIAGARA FALLS

Donald Roscoe, Aged 10, and Hubert Moore, Aged 9, Are Caught in the Roaring Whirlpool Rapids.

HELPLESS MEN WATCH TRAGEDY FROM SHORE

When the Chums Realized Their Fate They Stood Up in the Boat and Clasped Hands in Farewell.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 22.—Donald Roscoe, 10 years old, and Hubert Moore, 9 years old, both of Niagara Falls, went to their death in a small boat this afternoon in the whirlpool rapids, while hundreds of men watched, helpless, from the shore.

The boys were playing in a flat bottom scow half a mile above the rapids when the rope holding the boat broke and they were carried out into the stream and down the river.

Until the boat reached midstream it made little progress. After it passed the bridges the current carried it swiftly toward the rapids. The bridgemen did not see the boat until it was close at hand. Then they called fire headquarters and two companies of firemen were sent to save the lads if possible.

Hundreds swarmed to the river banks in a vain effort at rescue. The boys, realizing their fate, stood up as the boat neared the edge of the roaring whirlpool and shook hands in farewell. A second later they were engulfed by a great wave in the rapids. The boat shot out of sight.

Never a Chance to Save Boys.

Never at any time was there a chance to save the boys. Scores of passengers in the cars along the gorge route watched the hopeless struggle of the boys, as did hundreds who had gathered at the water's edge. Men became hysterical and women passengers on the cars wept and prayed in distress at the plight of the boys, who were standing in the boat calling for help.

As the boat neared Swift Drift, the first breaking of the water from the calm upper reaches to the rapids, it began to rock. The boys sat down to keep from tumbling into the stream. Then, caught in Swift Drift, the boat went racing under the cantilever bridge. Whatever hope the boys had of rescue was lost. They ceased their cries for help, turned toward each other and calmly shook hands, then, with the boat in the tumbling waters, threw themselves on the seats of the scow and clung with all their strength.

The craft held to its course until it encountered a huge wave, which reared at a height of forty feet, sending it dive into the very middle of the wave, and when it again came to view it was bottom up.

Little Heads Appear.

A second or two later a little head appeared bobbing on a wave below for a moment and then was seen no more.

The bodies of the boys are in the whirlpool, and may never be recovered. There was a quantity of driftwood within there this afternoon and the bodies may be beaten to pieces as were those of Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Stanton, of Toronto, and Burrell Peacock, of Cleveland, the victims of the ice bridge tragedy of February 4, 1912. They were battered by cakes of ice.

The point where the boat broke loose is about a half mile from the beginning of the rapids. It drifted down in about 12 minutes.

Donald Roscoe's mother is very ill and was not told of the tragedy. The boys were members of well-known

SHE FINDS SONS DEAD WITH A RATTLESNAKE LYING BETWEEN THEM

Beach, N. D., June 22.—When Mrs. Dave Grant, residing fourteen miles southwest of Beach, went to call her two sons, aged 5 and 7, this morning she found them dead in bed with a rattlesnake lying between them. It is believed that the reptile crawled into the bed clothes during the day while they were being aired out of doors. During the previous evening, both of the youths had complained that they had complained that the other was pinching him.

WILSON TO MAKE CURRENCY SPEECH BEFORE CONGRESS

President Will Appear in Person Today and Urge the Necessity of Immediate Reform of Banking System.

WILSON IS SUPPORTED BY SECRETARY BRYAN

Bryan Gives His Unreserved Indorsement to Measure. He Says It Is Good for the Banks and Also the People.

Washington, June 22.—The president of the United States will go to congress tomorrow to deliver the second message of his administration. Asa when the president Wilson submitted his ideas on tariff reform, congress will meet in joint session in the chamber of the house to hear his message on currency legislation.

For the second time in more than a hundred years upon such an occasion the senate will march in a body to the house chamber at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The front rows will be reserved for the senators, members of the house crowding into the rear seats. President Wilson will arrive at 1 o'clock and, after being presented by Speaker Clark, will deliver his message urging currency legislation before the close of the special session.

Bryan Indorses Currency Bill.

On the eve of this extraordinary occasion, Secretary Bryan tonight issued a statement on the currency bill prepared by Chairmen Glass and Owen, of the congressional banking and currency committees, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and the president. Secretary Bryan gave his "unreserved" indorsement to the proposed measure and removed all doubt as to his position with reference to currency reform, the ideas of President Wilson and the necessity for immediate action.

"I am glad to indorse most earnestly and unreservedly the currency bill which has been prepared by the chairmen of the two congressional committees in conjunction with the president and Secretary McAdoo," said the secretary. "It is a much better bill than I supposed it possible to secure at this time. Conflicting opinions, honestly entertained and strongly adhered to, have been reconciled with a success hardly to be expected. I have doubted until recently the wisdom of attempting currency legislation at this session, but my doubts were largely due to the fact that I feared the difficulties in the way would prevent an agreement upon a plan.

Advantages Given to Banks.

"The plan which the president now urges confers great advantages upon the banks, while it preserves to the people acting through the government all that is essential for the protection of the public. The notes are to be treasury notes, issued by the govern-

POLICE STATION PRISONERS GO ON MUSICAL JAG SUNDAY; RAG SONGS ARE FAVORITES

Police headquarters rang with melody Sunday from dawn until midnight, awaking with song, spending a day in singing and going to sleep with a good-night ballad.

Usually the prison inmates spend their Sundays in sad and dejected spirits. But not so yesterday. A vaudeville program seemed in progress in every ward. Someone started vocal festivities in the "plain drunk" ward shortly after the sun had begun to creep over the skyscrapers and filter through the bars. Later the situation ripened into a singing contest. Each ward had its contestants.

Drunkard's Favor Ragtime.

Ward 1, "drunkard's dungeon," so called for its class of inhabitants, the plain drunks, evidently remained on its jag all during the day. Ragtime was their specialty.

Its favorite was a certain aged song which pertained to a lover's criticism of his Salome's raiment, running thusly:

"Don't you do that dance, I tell you, Sadie—
That is no business for a lady.
Most everybody knows
That I'm your lovin' Mose,
Oy, oy, oy, where is your clothes?"

Hobo Haven Enters Contest.

Ward 2, "hobo's haven," wherein reside the idlers and loiterers, vagrants and other like enemies to labor, threw its hat into the ring with this ode:

"I'd be nice, twice as nice,
As any guy you ever knew,
You can open up my letters any time at all,
And I'd like to wear your picture in my dollar watch.
Oh it's nice to be nice
To a nice little girl like you."

Ward 3, "nigger hollow," the negro section, chimed in with a once-popular selection exploiting a famous ragtime character:

"Steamboat Bill stopped steaming down the Mississippi—
Steamboat Bill, he joined the angel's band.
Steamboat Bill stopped floatin' down the Mississippi—
He's a pilot on a ferry in the Promised Land."

Then Everybody Listens.

Even the "Vale of Sighs," the female ward up stairs, was not immune. The contagion spread there and resulted in a rise of harmony that shamed even the riotous ragtime of "drunkard's dungeon." From the "Vale of Sighs" came this plaint:

"I bet a lot of people often wonder why
I am never dressed up swell.
They say that I could wear a bunch of gorgeous gowns
And be a Peachtree belle.
I know a lot of girls who make but twelve a week,
Yet they wear a lot of diamond rings.
People wonder where they get them—there's no mystery in that.
With but little effort I could have those things."

Applause Greets Song.

The songbirds in the "Vale of Sighs" were the real hit of the program. The songsters in the prison underneath were entirely subdued whenever feminine voices were wafted down from the women's ward. A gale of applause greeted each song, as it ended thusly:

"There isn't anybody can say that about me,
Because—
I'm not that kind of a gir-ur-l."

Thus it went at police headquarters on Sunday. A continuous performance with everything from "The Rosary" to ragtime, with an audience that never left its seats during an unpleasant number or at the close of the show.

QUARREL OVER CAT ENDS IN SHOOTING OF NEGRESS SUNDAY

In the presence of his wife, R. L. Griffin, a carpenter, stood on the back porch of his home at 21 Markham street Sunday morning and pumped a load of buckshot into Mamie Rice, a negress, who had cursed both the white man and woman in a neighborhood row over cats and chickens.

The shot penetrated the woman's abdomen, and she was carried to Grady hospital in a serious condition. It is believed, however, that she will survive. Griffin was arrested and brought to police headquarters, where he was charged with assault with intent to murder.

The shooting was the culmination of the slaying of the negro woman's cat several days ago by a young son of Griffin, who, upon catching the animal killing his father's chickens, shot it with the shotgun which Griffin used Sunday. Sunday afternoon, the police say, the Rice woman, who lives in an alley adjoining the Griffin home, began cursing Mrs. Griffin, who stood on her back porch.

The husband came on the porch. She continued her abuse, it is said, and Griffin ordered the woman to leave the place. When she continued he walked into the hall, got his shotgun and opened

SENTENCED TO HANG, SLAYER ENTERTAINS PRISONERS BY SONG

Oscar Dewberry, a negro sentenced to hang on July 11, is sinking away the days that separate him from the date of his execution.

Dewberry, it is said, was a choir singer at one time. He possesses a clear and distinct tenor voice that rings throughout the prison whenever lifted in song. He was sentenced for the murder of a white youth who was killed by a stab wound several months ago on Decatur street, near Pratt.

Two cells in the Fulton tower near Dewberry's are occupied by two other negro singers. Daily the trio join in song that fills the Tower and draws crowds of privileged inmates to the vicinity of their cells. Their selections of songs are mostly religious.

Dewberry's execution will be the first held this year in Fulton county. Only two were hanged in 1912, Sam Swatson, the Columbus rapist, and R. L. Clay, the wife murderer.

Stinson Makes Appeal.

Philadelphia, June 22.—An interesting story of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute was told in Bethel church here today by Rev. Richard D. Stinson, the principal. The audience was large and much interest was manifested. The speaker declared that practical education is the demand of the times to make decent and useful citizens. He asked the audience to aid the school in erecting a college in which to teach domestic science and trades.

SHERIFF THWARTS ATTEMPT TO LYNCH BLACKS AT DUBLIN

Murder of J. T. Hewell and His Wife Arouses Fury of Citizens Against the Three Negro Suspects.

BLACKS PUT ON TRAIN AND TAKEN TO MACON

Several Hundred, Bent Upon Lynching, Move on Jail and Demand Surrender of Three Prisoners.

Dublin, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—Eluding the vigilance of a mob of several hundred bent on lynching three negroes suspected of having murdered J. T. Hewell and his wife this morning, Sheriff J. J. Flanders tonight spirited his three prisoners on board a train held for the purpose and took them to Macon, by way of Eastman.

Excitement following the news of the shocking murder culminated late this afternoon in an attack on the Laurens county jail and the demand for the surrender of the three blacks. The demand was refused and many members of the mob left for their suppers, leaving guards to watch the jail and determined to carry out their purpose during the night.

When those who remained relaxed their watchfulness somewhat and moved off from the jail toward the courthouse, Sheriff Flanders, City Court sheriff C. M. Greer, Superior Court Judge K. J. Hawkins and the deputy sheriff took advantage of the moment and slipped the prisoners to the railroad and on board the train.

Called From Beds.

Mr. Hewell, a country merchant at Long Branch, near Dublin, and his wife were murdered early Sunday morning, after being called from their beds. Bloodhounds placed on the trail led the posse to the cabin of three negroes, Smith Harris, Joe May and Henry Kitchens. These negroes were hurried to jail.

Hewell was called from his slumbers and when he went into the yard the assassin opened fire upon him with a shotgun. The right side of his face was riddled with No. 4 shot, the right eye being shot out. As he fell the lighted lamplin his hand set his shirt on fire, making a solid mass of blisters on his body.

Woman Also Slain.

Mrs. Hewell ran to her husband's assistance, and was probably ordered back in the house by the negro. As she turned to enter the house she was shot through the left thigh with a bullet, presumably from a revolver, and a load of the bird shot was emptied in her back. She was found lying face down in the doorway with one foot on the top step.

The sheriff and coroner were notified by a neighbor who, on hearing shots, put out for the city.

When the officers and a quickly-summoned jury reached the scene the woman was dead, while Mr. Hewell was suffering agonies from his wounds and burns.

Hewell muttered something about a negro having done the shooting, but nothing tangible could be obtained from him. He died while being brought to the city.

The county's dogs were placed on the tracks found at the scene and trailed to the home of Smith Harris, alias Frank Harris, a negro, who was placed under arrest, as was also Joe May, who was at Harris' home. Harris' shoes are alleged to fit the tracks perfectly. Later the dogs were put on the barefoot tracks that met the first tracks near where the crime was committed, and they led the officers to Henry Kitchens. A single-barrel shotgun was found at his house that had been recently fired. He was also arrested.

Robbery the Motive.

The theory of the officers is that Harris borrowed Kitchens' gun to commit the deed with, and that they met in the woods to divide the money that Harris secured and to return the gun. Mrs. Hewell's trunk was ransacked; the suitcases and grips were thrown down and the contents scattered. The contents had been searched, while the small grip that Hewell kept his money in was found in the woods near where the shoe and barefoot tracks met.

Hewell, after being shot, pulled his trousers off, probably in an effort to put his clothes out after his hat had caught fire. They were found outside his yard fence, while his body was found in the yard. Blood stains were all over the bushes, and the wire fence where he had gone after regaining consciousness. He went to the creek, whether to wash his wounds or in search of the assassins is not known. Returning to the house, he fell in the yard at the point distance from where he was shot down.

Both of Hewell's revolvers were found on the yard near his body. It is not known whether his wife carried them out to give to her husband or if the negroes dropped them there where they finished ransacking the house. Hewell's watch and his wife's rings and jewelry were not molested. His money bag that he was known to have kept in the grip, found in the woods, was found lying empty in the yard. The current belief here is that the dastards took the money out of the bag and put it in the grip, later removing it and throwing the grip away. What they did with the money is not known, as continued search has failed to locate it.

Hewell's Son Notified.

Hewell's son, E. Hewell, who travels out of Macon for a packing house, was reached over long distance at Hawkinsville, and came to the city on the morning train. He will have his father's remains shipped to Griffin, his former home, for interment, and is now striving to get into communication with his stepmother's relatives at Early, S. C., to know if they want her body shipped there for burial.

Hewell was 35 years old, while his wife was only about 30.

The coroner's jury has not completed its labors, but has adjourned to meet again at 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at which time they will probably render their verdict.

MURPHY SAYS SULZER WOULD COMMIT PERJURY

Tammany Boss Says That He Refused to Meet the Governor Alone.

New York, June 22.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, in a statement tonight, declared that Governor Sulzer was "absolutely in error" when he accused Mr. Murphy "of being a party to any so-called conspiracy to discredit" the governor. Mr. Murphy replied also to other assertions regarding him made by Governor Sulzer at Albany last night.

"If as he says," Mr. Murphy's statement adds, "detectives have been engaged in scouring the country in quest of something reflecting on his record, I knew nothing of it until he himself imparted the information. Indeed, all his other allegations concerning me were just as false and absurd, and he knows it.

While he was in Albany, attending the meeting of presidential electors, Mr. Murphy says Governor Sulzer sent a messenger asking for an appointment. The statement continues:

"I said that I would have to decline to meet the governor unless I c mes sengers or some other third party would sit in the room and listen to the conversation, that I would not trust myself alone because I believed the governor would not hesitate to swear my life away if he found it to his political advantage to do so. Subsequent events have confirmed my judgment."

Regarding a later meeting he had with the governor in this city, the Tammany leader says the appointment was sought by the executive.

UNION WILL SUPPORT STRIKING PHONE GIRLS

St. Louis, Mo., June 22.—The Central Trades and Labor union here today voted both its moral and financial support to the striking switchboard operators of the Bell Telephone company. Girls of the girls, chaperoned, appeared before the men's union.

Today the girls asked the labor union to boycott all telephones using Bell telephones. Action was deferred, but a committee was appointed to devise means of assisting the girls in settling their grievances with the telephone company.

The Building and Structural Ironworkers' union, No. 18, notified all of its members that they must order out the telephones of the Bell Telephone company. Should any of its members use a Bell telephone they will be subjected to a fine of $10.

For Smaller and Better Families

Lady COOK

Lady Francis Cook, formerly Miss Tennie Clafin, who recently returned to America, says there are too many people in the world. She has taken up the eugenics cult, and in a lecture to New York society women at the home of Miss Hattie Darling, 210 West Seventy-eighth street, she advised them to have children, but not too many. She berated the childless society matron, but defended those who declined to have large families, unless they found time to devote all their attention to the bringing up of the little ones. "We have enough people in the world today," she said. "What the future needs is smaller families and better quality. I want the intelligent men and women of this country to pledge themselves to a propaganda of education—that is, form an endless chain to keep up the race standard."

NINE MEN ARE DROWNED WHEN BOAT CAPSIZES

New Madrid, Mo., June 22.—Nine of a party of 14 United States engineers and other government employees were drowned near New Madrid late today when the United States survey boat Beaver, which the party was aboard, was capsized during a wind storm.

Those drowned are:

C. S. WILLIAMSON, chief engineer of Mason, Ohio.

J. M. MCCONNELL, of Memphis, a recent graduate of the law department of Cornell university.

CAPTAIN LAMB, pilot.

A. D. CUPTON, engineer.

HARRY SHERRELL, mate, Cottonwood, Tenn.

PHIL WRAY, Jacyson, Tenn.

—— FREEMAN, deck hand.

Two rodmen, names unknown.

Mr. Williamson had been stationed at Memphis for several years.

J. H. Miller, civil engineer of Millersburg, Ky., and four deckhands were the others of the party who reached the bank in safety.

The Beaver, a small craft of the canal boat type, left Memphis last Friday for Snakey Bend, in the Mississippi river, about 7 miles north of New Madrid, where a survey was to be made preliminary to the construction of revetments. The boat had proceeded to a point about 4 miles above this city and was near mid-stream when the storm broke with but little warning. Before the craft could be made ready to brave the wind it was overturned and sank. Those drowned presumably were caught in the wreckage and drawn down with the boat. Williamson's body floated to the surface within an hour.

Snaky Bend is in a remote section, and until the return of boats sent from this city, further details are improbable.

The United States steamer Chisca left Memphis early tonight for the scene of the accident to search for the bodies.

BOYS AND GIRLS DROWN IN THE MISSOURI RIVER

Kansas City, Mo., June 22.—Kenneth Lewis, aged 22; Len Walker, 18, and Max Secrist, all of Kansas City, Kan., and a young woman, name unknown, were thrown into the Missouri river near Parkville, Mo., when a motorboat in which the four were riding was capsized late today. They were swept down the stream and it is believed all were drowned.

OVER 10,000 BOOTBLACKS QUIT WORK ON SUNDAY

New York, June 22.—More than 10,000 bootblacks in and around the city laid down their brushes and folded their shining cloths at 3 o'clock this afternoon and called it a week. After that hour "shine" was unobtainable. It was the first official act of the newly-organized bootblacks' union.

The bootblacks explained that they were prompted in taking an early closing hour on Sunday afternoon because it was the only opportunity of the week for them to have a few hours' recreation.

Four Firemen Killed.

Montreal, June 22.—Four firemen are dead and three others are seriously injured as the result of a disastrous fire here today. The dead are: John C. Forsythe, Patrick Hammil, John McDermott, and Webster Moleson. The fire destroyed the large rash and blind factory of Ilzweire & Sarrasin and the ice warehouse of the City Ice company, and damaged other nearby buildings.

Boy Who Took Poison Refuses to Explain Attempt at Suicide

Refusing to tell his motive for swallowing a quantity of morphine early Sunday morning in a suicide attempt Cleve Morrison, a 22-year-old laundry worker, is in Grady hospital rapidly recovering from effects of the poison.

He was found in the bedroom of his home, 47 East Fair, about 2:30 o'clock. His father, who made the discovery, summoned an ambulance. When the machine arrived, the youth objected to being carried to the hospital, declaring he was not to die.

He was quickly revived by the stomach pump, and Sunday night was able to leave the hospital. While he would not explain his attempt, his father said that lack of employment was the cause.

BANKERS CONSIDERING CURRENCY MEASURE

New York, June 22.—Eleven of the 15 members of the currency commission of the American Bankers' association, whose views on numerous problems were made known in a statement they gave out last night, were in conference at an uptown hotel today with the currency bill recently framed in Washington as the subject of consideration.

United States Senator Robert L. Owen, chairman of the senate committee on banks and currency, who will have the new bill in charge in the upper branch of congress, was in the city and was reported to have attended the conference. The senator would not admit, however, that he had been present. He returned to Washington tonight. The bankers expect to continue their conference tomorrow.

Senator Owen was reported to have outlined the attitude of the administration on currency legislation and to have indicated that full consideration would be given any suggestions the bankers might make regarding the bill or objections they might have to provisions in the measure.

JAPANESE SOUNDING AMERICAN SENTIMENT

New York, June 22.—Here to sound sentiment in the east and middle west on the question of land ownership of Japanese in California, he said, K. Okazaki, member of the Japanese parliament, arrived today from Europe on the Carmania. In his mission he represents the interests of his political party, of which former Premier Katsura is the leader.

"We know that the attitude of the west is mostly against us," said Mr. Okazaki, "but the people and those in the middle west seem to be neutral. I am here to find out exactly what their sentiments are. We do not, of course, ask for citizenship rights for the Japanese. We understand that the law is against our people being naturalized in the United States. But we do ask for the right to own property, such property as we might wish to purchase."

Mr. Okazaki, who left Tokio April 17, was in London when he received a message from the Marquis Katsura, asking the traveler to investigate the situation here, he said, as the advices to Japan were of a contradictory nature. He will spend some time in New York and Chicago as guest of the consuls and will then go to the Japanese embassy in Washington. He hopes to be able to arrange a meeting with Secretary of State Bryan.

CHARGES ARE UNTRUE, DECLARES M'REYNOLDS

Diggs-Caminetti Cases Postponed at Request of Secretary Wilson.

Washington, June 22. — Secretary Wilson, of the department of labor, tonight took full responsibility for the postponement of trial in the Diggs-Caminetti case, the basis of sensational charges telegraphed to the president yesterday by United States Attorney John L. McNab, of San Francisco, with a request that his resignation be accepted at once.

In a signed statement, Secretary Wilson said:

"The attorney-general postponed trial in the Diggs-Caminetti case solely upon my request. I am, therefore, responsible for the postponement. Mr. Caminetti has but recently assumed the duties of commissioner general of immigration. He has not yet fully familiarized himself with the duties of the office. He asked me for leave of absence in order that he might return to California to be present at the trial of his case. I insisted that he remain here until he was sufficiently acquainted with the duties of the position of commissioner general to be able to properly inspect the immigration stations at Pacific ports when he returned to California. I, therefore, suggested that I would ask the attorney-general to postpone the trial of the case until the next term of court. It is nothing unusual for the district attorney of that or any other district, or the attorney general, to grant a postponement of trial in such cases when an immediate trial would seriously inconvenience either party.

"The suggestion and the request came from me purely in the interest of the public service."

The resignation of Attorney John L. McNab will be accepted promptly. That was the only information from the white house on the situation.

The cases are those of Maury I. Diggs and Drew C. Caminetti, of San Francisco, indicted under the white slave law, and officials of the Western Fuel company indicted for conspiracy to defraud the customs. Caminetti is a son of Anthony Caminetti, recently appointed commissioner general of immigration.

McNab, a republican holding over from the last administration, charged that "rich and powerful" influences were working to defeat the prosecution. Attorney General McReynolds was willing to say this much for publication:

"There is every intention of prosecuting all those cases. They will be taken care of in due time by capable officials. No interest will suffer by the postponement."

The attorney general intimated he might issue a formal statement later.

Another version was volunteered by C. C. Boynton, a San Francisco lawyer, associated in other cases with R. T. Devlin, of San Francisco, counsel in the defense of Caminetti and Diggs.

Both Devlin and Boynton are to appear here July 1 before Secretary Lane in some timber cases. Boynton, in a statement, declared one reason for postponement was to permit Devlin to appear in Washington, and that McNab had informed Devlin that he was agreeable to the delay.

McNab Makes Denial.

San Francisco, June 23.—United States District Attorney McNab denied tonight that he had agreed with Attorney R. T. Devlin to postpone the Diggs-Caminetti case, as he was reported at Washington to have done.

"Never heard of such a proposition," he said. "I saw Devlin a week or ten days ago and he asked me if we expected to reach the case on the 26th. I told him we did so expect.

"But how can you reach those cases the 26th when the Western Fuel cases come on the 24th?" he asked.

"The Western Fuel cases," I said to him, 'aren't so important as the public seems to think. We'll get to the Diggs-Caminetti cases without delay.'"

McNab said he was glad to learn that his resignation would be accepted promptly.

PRIMARY IN ARKANSAS VERY MUCH IN DOUBT

Little Rock, Ark., June 22.—Returns received up to 11 o'clock from yesterday's democratic gubernatorial primary election were insufficient to determine whether former Congressman Stephen Brundidge or Judge George W. Hayes had been elected as the party nominee for the governorship. It is possible that the official count will be necessary to decide the result. At no time early tonight did the returns show either candidate more than several hundred votes ahead of his opponent. Campaign managers of each claim the nomination by about 5,000 votes.

Wire service is badly crippled as the result of the storm that swept through the state today, delaying the transmission of the returns. In Phillips county, one of the most populous of the state, the ballot boxes have been locked in a bank vault and may not be opened for several days.

Both the republican and progressive parties have nominated candidates to contest in the general election to be held July 22. The democratic nomination in Arkansas, however, is considered equivalent to an election.

Japanese Prince Ill.

San Francisco, Cal., June 22.—Prince Atsunomiya, second son of the emperor of Japan, has been ill since June 19, according to a cablegram received here today by The Japanese American, a Japanese newspaper. The young man has been suffering from loss of sleep and his appetite has been poor.

PREVOST, FASTEST AVIATOR IN THE WORLD.

Maurice Prevost earned the title of being the fastest aviator in the world when he flew around the aviation field at Rennes, France, for about eighty miles at an average speed of 111½ miles an hour. The feat was a remarkable one, and made the spectators fairly dizzy. It was predicted that if Prevost continued his bursts of speed in future tests he would surely fly to his death. Prevost is one of the most daring and expert drivers. In the accompanying illustration he is shown seated in the cars of his monoplane, looking very much as though he were in a racing automobile. The start of a speed test is also shown.

Mystery of the Grand Canyon.

(From Leslie's.)

"How do you explain it?" inquired one on meeting Sir John Murray, the eminent British geologist and president of the Royal Geographical society. This was briefly the answer, though not in his words: "On either side of the wide plain extending from sixty to one hundred miles to the right and left of the canyon, evidences of severe volcanic action are visible. In the center was a plateau but you now look down upon it as the vast chasm of the canyon. Thrice the volcanic forces of nature, operating on either side, violently and with tremendous power, forced this plateau upward until finally in one cyclopic, tremendous upheaval the plateau parted, and the Grand Canyon, the wonder and mystery of the world, was born. Imagine a loaf of dough risen silently under the continuous pressure of the yeast until finally the crust is broken and the loaf divided into two. Then look at this broken crust of mother earth. In the early days a vast area embracing a great portion of the interior of the American continent was covered with water. It was a great sea. All over the canyon, fossil oyster shells proved this contention. The Grand Canyon opened, the waters of the inland sea rushed through in a tearing flood and carved the fantastic forms you now see."

The questioner further inquired of Sir John, "No doubt this was all very remote, in the early ages of the world?"

"Oh, no," said Sir John. "Modern, quite modern—not more than twenty or thirty million years ago!"

Food for Reflection.

Robby—I think I like you better than any of the other fellows that come to see sister.

ATLANTA TROOPS SPLASH IN SURF

Everything Now Shipshape at "Camp Brown" and Troopers Are Enjoying a Fine Time.

By Ogle Grice
(Private, Governor's Horse Guard.)

Brunswick, Ga., June 22.—Sunday morning found the troopers of the Second squadron engaged in the art of beautifying the newly inaugurated camp, which has been named Camp Brown, in honor of Governor Brown.

The site of the camp is absolutely level, elevated about ten feet from the sea, and was once heavily wooded. A large number of trees were left standing when the site was originally laid out and practically all of the tents are thus benefited by shade during the day.

A few envied troopers, after the hard work of pitching camp Saturday, were so fortunate as to be relieved of duty about 7 o'clock in order to enjoy surf bathing. Sunday morning they flocked to the beach at an early hour, leaving only a few disappointed ones to look after the camp. This is the first coast of many of the men and they have fallen in love with the bathing and shouts of delight and pleasure voice their feelings when they are permitted to have that privilege.

Saturday night many of the men went to a ball at the new St. Simons hotel.

After mess Sunday morning the men policed the camp for several hours.

Liberty for the Day.

Imediately after the police duty practically all the men were given complete liberty for the day, and they left camp within a few minutes, practically speaking "as one man" for the beach for a few hours' pleasure.

Large quantities of leaves and other similar material was burned Saturday afternoon and night. Scores of fires smouldered during the night, and although mosquito nets were not available, no ill consequences resulted. Large mosquito nets were furnished every officer and private Sunday for use during the remainder of the stay.

Headquarters tents were raised Sunday morning, and by 10 o'clock Adjutant McCollom was dictating orders to his orderly.

No drilling has been done, and it will probably be Tuesday before drills begin. Major Hunter, of the Third battalion, issued detail orders Sunday covering all routine company orders, such as the different bugle calls, hours of drilling, officers' school, mess, reville, tattoo, assembly, taps, etc. These apply to the Second squadron.

The field piece, under command of Sergeant Goodwin, of the Atlanta artillery, now the worse after its plunge into the sea Saturday while being transferred from the lighter, boomed salutes at designated intervals Sunday.

The First regiment, Georgia infantry band has begun concerts daily, in addition to the regular music required.

Visitors Number Thousands.

Every railroad entering Brunswick ran excursions into Brunswick early Sunday morning, to enable the surrounding country to see the Georgia guardsmen. They went from Brunswick to St. Simons, boatload after boatload. Steamers left every thirty minutes, and the last one, which left at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, was loaded to its full capacity.

The chief cause of such interest on the part of the public is that this is the first time all of Georgia's cavalry, five troops, has camped in one body in years. As a fit response to the friendly interest of the citizens, a dress parade was held Sunday afternoon for the benefit of the visitors, after which the band gave a concert to the delighted citizens.

Sergeant Cheney on Job.

Sergeant Cheney, of the Horse Guards, had the honor of superintending the detail which policed the ground and laid out the officers' tents. He is the "big Chief" in the Horse Guards when it comes to camp stories, and, together with Trumpeter Thompson, known as "Colonel Pood," kept the men in an uproar. An item in an Atlanta paper referring to the sergeant as new non-commissioned officer, has subjected him to such a large number of sarcastic jokes as to have caused him to have indicated a desire to the press representatives that nation-wide correction be made of the erroneous statement.

Men Tossed High in Air.

The favorite camp sport of blanket tossing held sway Sunday morning. Sergeants Elrod, Cheney and Stares, with a bunch of heavyweights, threw resisting privates high in the air, one man being thrown into the fork of a tree nearly 30 feet in the air. Baseball gloves and mits appeared as if by magic, and the national pastime was indulged in by many of the troopers. It is probable that a squadron league will be formed and games played daily.

SEVEN STEPS DOWNWARD AND AWAY FROM GOD

Rev. Caleb A. Ridley, of the Central Baptist church, spoke three times yesterday to splendid audiences. At the 11 o'clock service he spoke on "The Emblems of the Spirit," showing how scripture used figure after figure, setting forth the many-sided character and work of the spirit. There was one addition to the church at the conclusion of the service.

The sermon at night was on "How to Become an Infidel," and the first chapter of Romans was used as a text for an expository sermon on going away from God into infidelity and death. The preacher said that there were seven steps downward and away from God in this chapter. These steps he pointed out under the following divisions:

They knew God.
Glorified Him not as God.
Were not thankful.
Became vain in their imaginations.
Professed themselves wise.
Their hearts became darkened.
God gave them up.

Bloodshed Feared if Strike Is Renewed

Since the departure of the senate investigating committee, which required into the conditions in the Cabin and Paint Creek fields, renewed strike trouble has broken out in West Virginia. Repetition of the serious conflicts of a few months ago is feared. Because of the federal inquiry the situation is of wider interest than before. Thomas Haggerty, national organizer of the United Mine Workers, returned from the New River coal field with the announcement that District 29, embracing Raleigh and Fayette counties, had decided to call a strike in the entire field. A convention of the miners voted to strike. There are 15,000 miners in the New River coal field. Haggerty declares that 12,000 miners would lay down their picks at the first call. The men demand check weighmen, committee to adjust grievances, the right to belong to a union, the right of assembly and the short ton. No advance in wages is asked. The strike at Cabin Creek was voted for at two mass meetings of the miners, but officials of District 17 decided to wait till June 23 before ordering a general strike. The town of Carlisle, in the New River field, was fired upon by a band of strikers, apparently to intimidate the nonunion miners. The miners are known to be well armed in that region.

WILL SEEK GRADUAL RAISE OF AGE LIMIT

Child Labor Bill, Approved by Textile Manufacturers, to Be Introduced in House.

A bill providing for the gradual increase of the age limit at which children may be employed in industry in Georgia has been drawn by Hooper Alexander, representing those who are interested in placing further restrictions upon child labor, and will be introduced in the house this summer.

The measure fixes the age limit at which children may be employed in manufacturing and commercial enterprises at 12 in 1914, at 13 in 1915 and at 14 in 1915. It is expected by this gradual increase in the age limit from year to year to check the evils arising from the employment of young children without serious embarassment to employers.

Those who have charge of this legislation have conferred with leading manufacturers and the Georgia Textile Manufacturers' association has given its indorsement to the measure. It has not yet been decided just who will be asked to introduce the bill, but it will be strongly backed when presented.

Need New Law, Says Stanley.

Georgia will in all probability soon have a new child labor law, according to H. M. Stanley, head of the department of commerce and labor, whose first report has just been completed and given out for publication.

"There is a necessity in Georgia for a new child labor law," he writes in a letter to The Constitution. "This is recognized by all who have studied the question and by the Georgia Textile association as well. A bill will be introduced at the coming session of the general assembly with the indorsement of that organization, and I believe will be unopposed by any manufacturer or association of manufacturers. This bill, it is believed, will meet with the full approval of those engaged in sociological work."

BAPTIST MINISTERS HAVE BARBECUE TODAY

Dr. C. A. Ridley, president of the Baptist ministers' conference, has announced that the men composing this conference will meet at 11 o'clock today at the waterworks, and after transacting regular business will have an old-time picnic and baseball game together.

Dr. Ridley and Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, were both fast pitchers in their boyhood days, and they expect to "toss up" for the chances to draw their sides. The game will start after dinner and will last as long as the players hold out to play.

SACRED HARP SINGERS ENTERTAIN VETERANS

The Sacred Harp singers were at their best in a concert at the Confederate Soldiers' home yesterday afternoon, when 200 strong they rendered a delightful program which included classical and religious numbers.

The soldiers themselves joined in the singing of the old favorites, "Annie Laurie," "Bonnie Blue Flag," "Old Black Joe" and "Sewanee River." Quite a crowd from the city went out with the Sacred Harp singers to enjoy the music and mingle with the soldiers. "We are always glad to have the Sacred Harp society with us, they seem to attract a bigger crowd than many other entertainers we have ever had," said one veteran, in commenting on the program, and he was heartily indorsed in this by many of his comrades.

REV. JOHN CASSERLY SAYS HIS FIRST MASS

Father Casserly, who is a native of Ireland, has been assigned to the Sacred Heart church in Houston, Texas. He formerly taught at Marist college, and has a number of friends in Atlanta.

These Are Beautiful Days In the Wash Goods Section

A leisurely walk down wash goods aisle is like a stroll through a flower garden in full bloom! It seems that the weavers have entered into active competition with nature, and who is going to say they have not done well?

They have spread—and in their nature-given colors — the flowers of summertime across sheer crepes and sheerer voiles and filmy silk and cotton fabrics with such a captivating, beautiful effect that—well, the dresses are going to be charming!

The occasion of our enthusiasm about wash fabrics is the recent return of the buyer from New York and the captures he made.

Women in search of new and cool dresses must see with their own eyes the splendid varieties; therein alone lies satisfaction and the assurance that the new dress will be the prettiest possible.

New French Crepes in plain shades and striped and figured and flowered —little rosebuds and clusters of flowers in delicate shades.

New Voiles in light and dark shades, sometimes with the most unobtrusive stripe of self-color through them; voiles with ratine borders; one very pretty white voile has a light blue ratine border.

New Silk and Cotton fabrics. Perhaps you would never detect that there is a cotton thread in them, so silk-like is their sheen and so silky do they "feel." But their chiefest charm is the new way little flowers are thrown across surfaces.

But there are more things just arrived that will interest you than can well be told of here!

FOUNDED ON A ROCK.

Oscar Underwood is in favor of progress that is founded on a rock. That was the substance of a commencement address he delivered recently at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville. His speech was tuned to the theme of "Stop, Look, Listen," and throughout it was a plea for progress based upon conservatism. He expressed one of the striking phenomena of the past few years when he said:

> What may be regarded as radical today may be the inner citadel of conservatism tomorrow. The danger that confronts us in the onward march of the nation comes from the hasty adoption of ill-considered proposals, sometimes coming from honest but ill-advised advocates of real progress and as often coming from the cunning hirelings of reactionary interests who would, under the name of progress start a false movement to mislead and confuse in the hope that they may delay the day when special privilege shall be divorced from our economic and governmental system. We should move forward with conservatism that will avoid a reaction in public sentiment and abandon a radical onrush that may lead to disaster and delay the accomplishment of a good result.

As bearing out the Underwood philosophy, we are today accepting as commonplace many theories that would yesterday have been scouted or viewed with fear. So much for progress, when it is well conducted. And we may, therefore, confidently expect that, history repeating itself, we will tomorrow cheerfully tolerate doctrines that today excite our most emphatic apprehension.

That said, it remains that Mr. Underwood is correct when he warns against the wild fads of the times. All ages and all stages of progress have to put up with old men of the sea in the shape of political freebooters who take advantage of forward tendencies to inflame public sentiment for their own good. For example, we have with us today demagogues who seek to monopolize the phrase "progressive," to twist it into a political creed and to read into obloquy all who do not measure up to the erratic tenets they manufacture. These men, and many others of their tendency, encourage rabid mental drifts that would tear down courts, emasculate the constitution and generally weaken respect for law and order.

It is doubtlessly against this class that Mr. Underwood issued warning. Of all men in congress, he is most qualified to speak advisedly. His poise is proverbial. With it all, his devotion to sane progress is established. The new tariff bill now in the senate is a monument to Underwood. And no American congress since the war has framed a tariff bill more truly just and progressive than the one which stands so good a show of becoming law.

JUSTICE TO ALASKA.

President Wilson has given unequivocal indication that he will favor constructive legislation for Alaska during the present session of congress. It may be possible that if congress decides to postpone currency legislation until the December session Alaska will have to wait. But under any conditions, the president's word is given and action cannot be deferred more than eight months at the outside.

The development is a fortunate one. Alaska has been in a way the "step-child" of the nation. Situated in the extreme northwestern border of the continent only a few thousands of the nearly hundred millions of people in this country know or care a thing about the territory. So far as the bulk of the states are concerned, Alaska could govern itself or slip off into the Arctic ocean for all they cared.

The result has been a systematic neglect and stunting of one of the most valuable, fertile and promising of the possessions of the United States. The average man thinks of Alaska in romantic terms of gold, or as a frozen waste habitable only by Esquimaux or polar bear. As a matter of fact there are huge portions of the territory ideally adapted to agriculture and which quickly respond to properly directed efforts. With the exception of a very few months the climate is ideally delightful. As regards gold, it is not known just what resources the big territory conceals. Its coal mines are many and varied. Its timber resources are prodigious.

The apathy of congress, coupled with the insensate fear that corporations might exploit and strip the territory, have militated heretofore against proper laws for its development. Wherever the builder of homes and of enterprises turns, he is met with senseless restrictions. In many cases, he must even buy his coal from British Columbia at a high price when within a stone's throw are splendid native deposits.

The interior of the country, save where the rivers are navigable, is absolutely locked up from lack of transportation. The proposition now is for the government to build a trunk line which shall open up most of the country. To this proposal, President Wilson is virtually committed. It is thought, too, that congress is now about ready to abandon its attitude of indifference for one of active development. Such a change cannot come too soon for the welfare of a region larger in extent than many American states.

THE LIFE-SAVING SCREEN.

The state board of health believes it is a case of spare the screen and fatten the cemetery. That is the substance of one of the latest bulletins of the board, given out under the direction of Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary. It may be said, incidentally, that the educational bulletins the board has lately been circulating in Georgia have done signally effective work in the way of spreading the health propaganda in Georgia.

The bulletin in this case deals with that dreaded pest, the anopheles mosquito, which disseminates malaria. The connection between this species of mosquito and malaria is as indisputably connected as is that between the stegomyia fasciata and yellow fever. Gorgas rid Havana and the Isthmus of Panama of yellow fever by screening. New Orleans accomplished the same thing.

Yellow fever is, therefore, now a peril of the past save in those South American and African sections that have neglected the philosophy of the screen. What has been done with regard to yellow fever can be done with regard to malaria. The thing is proved by the fact that the communities that screen rigorously and observe all the rules are immune from the contagion. Those that do not pay the penalty.

The malaria mosquito operates chiefly at night. The board advises therefore that persons living in malarial districts avoid sitting on open porches. At all events, houses should be screened. If the mosquito cannot carry contagion to his victim, the scattering of the disease stops. A few dollars worth of screen is apt to be the means of saving many lives. Another thing to remember is that the person suffering with malaria is a greater menace to others than is a consumptive. Such a person should occupy a screened bed, so that mosquitoes cannot obtain access to him, absorb his poisoned blood and carry it on to healthy persons.

An additional advantage of screening is that it guards also against the housefly, which is the advance agent of typhoid fever and other diseases. Physicians in the counties throughout the state could perform no public service more emphatic than to give their active indorsement to the propaganda the state board of health is so wisely conducting. Considering the toll that malaria takes of life and efficiency in Georgia, and the relative ease of its elimination, a campaign looking to that end should be a matter of public policy.

However, that mint bed at the white house will never attain the popularity of the original government mint.

Ancient War Trappings.

(From The Chicago News.)

William H. Riggs, possessor of the most wonderful private collection of armor in the world, has arrived in this country from France to view the leading art museums, with particular reference to what collections of armor and ancient trappings of war have been gathered here since he last visited the United States, thirty-five years ago. He has spent his life amassing his treasures, which repose in his mansion in the Parc Monceau, Paris. Among the historic pieces of his collection is the parade armor of the first Duke of Alva, the sword of Henry of Navarre, the gauntlets of Henry VII and the helmet in which Henry II was fatally wounded when jousting.

Hyacinthe's Greatest Sermon.

(From la Grande Revue.)

Pere Hyacinthe, who was on a missionary tour, arrived very tired and asked for a bottle of light wine to pull him together. The wine set before him was not light, but extremely heady, but he was so busy marshaling his thoughts that he did not notice its strength until he had finished it.

He knew not what to do, but, ashamed to confess his condition, said nothing, and struggled up the pulpit stairs. How he got through the discourse he did not know. His voice had an unreal ring to him, the floor seemed to be sinking under his feet and the pulpit to be threatening to spring up and hit him on the head.

At last it was over and he staggered back to the vestry, expecting to encounter blank faces aghast at this disgrace. Instead of that his friends pressed forward to congratulate him. "Never," they said, "have we heard you preach so eloquently before."

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 22.—(Special.)—President Wilson in his book on "Congressional Government" has an interesting chapter on how appropriation bills are put through congress. He shows the evil of having several unrelated committees handling the purse strings, and urges the advantage of a budget system.

This subject has recently attracted much attention. It is now under serious consideration in the house of representatives. President Taft urged the change, and a commission appointed at his instance, in a voluminous report shows its advantages.

John Corrigan, Jr.

A special committee, of which Representative Oscar W. Underwood, the democratic house leader, is the head, is now considering the proposed change. Representative Swager Shirley, of Kentucky, who is the author of a bill to make the plan effective, is a member of the committee. Others are Representatives Hay of Virginia, Fitzgerald of New York, Garrett of Tennessee and Stevens of Texas.

The Sherley plan proposes the creation of a budget committee to consist of the nine chairmen of the ranking minority members of the committees of the house now authorized to pass on appropriation bills. The ways and means committee, which is charged with raising revenue to run the government, would also be represented. This committee would fix a limit on supply bills, and that amount could not be exceeded.

Economy in expenditures is a democratic principle, and the leaders realize they cannot carry out that policy as long as the present system of raising and spending the public money is followed.

Platform Pledges Economy.

The Baltimore platform with reference to public expenditures said:

"We denounce the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses, and demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government."

In spite of the record made in the sixty-second congress, the leaders really did all they could to stem the tide of extravagance. The present system of making appropriations is in large part responsible.

Appropriations are now made in thirteen annual bills, and eight different committees unrelated to one another, and sometimes extremely jealous of each other, are charged with the responsibility of preparing these bills. Co-ordination is practically impossible, and well-balanced appropriations are impossible.

But the democrats were not slow in learning their lesson. It was born of the experience obtained in the last congress. In spite of the leaders' warnings, the house passed appropriation bills aggregating $1,058,647,960, authorized further contracts of additional expenditures of $76,954,174, making a total demand upon the treasury for the year ending June 30, 1914, of $1,200,000,000 in round figures. This, too, after the leaders had used the pruning knife unsparingly in the efforts to cut down appropriations.

Congressman Has Hard Time.

Don't blame the congressman. His constituents are urging him to secure a berth upon the committees on rivers and harbors, public buildings and grounds and naval affairs, in order that he may be in better position to get federal money for his district for locks and dams, public buildings and navy yards.

Prior to the year 1865 the committee on ways and means in the house had control of the appropriations bills. Next the appropriation committee was created, and given full control of all supply bills. This plan continued in effect until 1885, when, jealous of the power exercised by Samuel J. Randall, the house proceeded to take from the appropriations committee the right to make the appropriation bills for the army, the diplomatic and consular service, the military academy, the navy, Indian affairs, and the postoffice. Since that time it has yearly been growing more difficult to keep down extravagant appropriations. That move marked the era of extravagance in which the congress has indulged itself practically ever since.

LOSS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

A man's Loss list is about his best Profit gauge. Growth in Nature and in the processes of Character is but a succession of Losses. The Seed is buried and Loses its form, but the Flower and Tree come. Youth is merged into the Man.

Your Life is Measured by what you Lose.

Examples of Gain from Loss dot History. Stevenson Lost his Health, but he gained a marvelous Patience and clearness of Thought and produced masterpieces that will live as long as Language lives. Mark Twain and Dickens both produced their greatest works after large unfortunate Losses. Lord Nelson was partially disabled in body when he entered his Forces against those of Napoleon.

Your Life is Measured by what you Lose.

Most of the successful men in this world have gone through a series of Losses. Each Loss was a step on which they walked to a higher, sounder level. The weakest, most foolish of all people are those who fear to Lose. Loss is the chisel that cuts Character. Burn this little line into your Memory—

Your Life is Measured by what you Lose.

For every Loss, remember there is always something better to take its place. So, when you Lose, expect the Gain—for it will come many times from a direction you least expect—Face your Losses with calmness, forgetting not for a moment that the process through which Loss goes is the great law of Growth.

The World's Mysteries

MYSTERIES of ROYALTY

DID "UNSER FRITZ" RECONSIDER?

Emperor William, of Germany, recently celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary as king of Prussia and emperor of Germany. He succeeded his father, who will be remembered, who was able to rule only ninety days, as he was practically dying when he began his reign at the death of William I., of Germany. The story of "Unser Fritz," and what occurred just previous to the death of his father and during his short reign, has always been a matter of much dispute and is now known probably to not more than half a dozen persons.

William I. died March 9, 1888. About a year before this time Frederick fell dangerously ill of a cold and sore throat. "Unser Fritz" was popular with the people and the whole nation was in sorrow. It was soon learned that his disease was incurable, and while there is no German law preventing the victim of an incurable disease from ascending the German imperial throne, yet there were apparently many reasons for averting such a step.

There was formed a strong party at court, which was determined to set aside Frederick's pretensions and to make the present kaiser the emperor. This is where the mystery begins. It is said Frederick wrote a formal promise to give up his claims to the throne in favor of his son, should Frederick's malady be pronounced incurable.

But Frederick's English wife was crown princess, and should she allow her husband to yield his claim to the throne she must give up all hope of becoming empress of Germany. She is reported to have coveted this title and her English family were also ambitious that it be given to her.

The upshot of the matter was that Dr. Morell Mackenzie, a great British throat specialist, was summoned, flatly contradicted the German doctors by declaring that Frederick had no cancer. He removed a part of the throat tissues and sent it to be analyzed. Professor Virchow, who made the analysis, agreed there was no cancer. Then the German specialists had their turn and they asserted Mackenzie had taken tissues from the unaffected part of the throat, and that the public was being deceived.

Frederick was taken to England and from thence to San Remo, the partisans of the crown princess making vehement, probably idiotic charges, that this change of scene was necessary because the German doctors, devoted to Prince William, would otherwise have tried to kill Frederick. It was also rumored that William had become estranged from both parents.

Then there were further charges by the adherents of Prince William that Mackenzie, acting in behalf of the crown princess and of the British royal family, was resorting to horrible tortures to keep Frederick alive long enough to be crowned German emperor, and that strong influence was exerted to prevent him from living up to his so-called "renunciation."

Finally, March 9, the old Kaiser Wilhelm died, and Frederick, at the point of death, was hurried back to Germany and began his brief reign. Did Frederick really renounce the crown? And was he compelled to change his mind by his wife and her English relatives? What was Mackenzie's part in the mysterious affair? And what role did the crown princess play in the imperial domestic drama?

At the time Wilhelm conquered France in the Franco-Prussian war, Frederick was 40 years old. He had fought gallantly in the war of 1870-71, and had commanded the army that had taken Sedan and made Napoleon III., of France, a prisoner. Frederick had more than once fallen into disfavor with his royal father and with the latter's grim, chancellor, von Bismarck, because of his liberal political views and for other reasons. Frederick was the idol of the soldiers and they always spoke affectionately of him as "Unser Fritz" and one of their greatest diversions around the camp fires was to tell stories of his free and easy democratic ways. He always appeared among them smoking a huge pipe, and yet it is said he hated tobacco and the smell of it always made him sick. Frederick had been promoted in 1858 to Victoria, princess royal of England, the eldest daughter of Queen Victoria, and in certain classes of German aristocracy, his wife was more or less falsely regarded as a meddling outsider and was cordially disliked. It took many years for the German people to overcome their hatred for the part she played in the brief reign of her husband.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON,
The Famous Prose Poet

PRIDE AS A HANDICAP

"It seems a strange thing that Jemima Terwilliger doesn't get married," observed the assessor. "She's admittedly one of the handsomest women in town and she has various accomplishments, but she's in danger of being an old maid. I noticed today that her complexion is fading. If she doesn't do something desperate soon she may never have a husband."

"She has only herself to blame if she is doomed to go down to her grave without having enjoyed the luxury of a husband," said the village patriarch. "For ten years desirable young men have been escorting her to the theaters and the ice cream emporiums, and she might have had any one of them had she been wise; but she was not the kind she was superior to the balance of the human race. I never knew a woman with a worse case of the swelled head. She thought she was a cross between Cleopatra and Helen of Troy, and that one of her smiles was reward enough for any sacrifice a young man might make for her.

"That sort of thing will do in romantic novels and epic poems, my friends, but it doesn't work out in real life. Very few of us look upon women as angels who have wings laid their wings. We realize that they are human beings like the rest of us, and when we go courting them we expect them to show human qualities. The young woman who gets the idea that this earth is too coarse for her feet doesn't have many friends. Her good looks and her skill as a pianist or water color painter may attract the young men, but when they find out that she regards herself as the biggest thing under the firmament, they step aside and let some newcomers have a chance. Pride is foolish enough when a person has accomplished something big; but what excuse has an ordinary girl for being proud? Rosy complexions and white teeth and dimples don't count for much. The country is full of them. This Terwilliger girl couldn't do anything but play a few footy tunes on a piano, and yet she thought business should be suspended whenever she appeared on the streets.

"There are different kinds of pride, of course. There's a sensible kind that no man should be without. I haven't much use for the man who hasn't pride enough to keep his whiskers in subjection and his shoes polished. I like the kind of pride that impels a citizen to keep his lawn neat and trim and to see that his wife has a new hat every once in a while. But that sort of pride doesn't cause a man to swell up. You may be full of it, and yet be meek and lowly.

"If you have the right kind of pride everybody will respect and admire you, and the whole town will vote for you if you ever run for office. But the wrong kind of pride makes you ridiculous and keeps you mighty lonesome, for no sane people want to associate with you.

"Several years ago young Keramith wrote a book that made a great hit. It was a pretty good book in its way, but Scott and Dickens and a lot of those fellows had written better ones. It never occurred to Keramith that his book wasn't the best one in the world. It was painful the way that young man swelled up. He forgot the names of most of his old friends and neighbors, and when he did condescend to speak to one of us it was only to brag about himself and his book, and to talk about his art.

"We'd have been proud of him if he had been the least bit modest, but he became so cheesty that everybody felt sore. After a while he wrote another book, and it was a damp and dismal failure. The critics shot it full of holes. Then he tried it again, and his third book was the worst yet. The critics didn't even mention it, it was so bad. You see, he exhausted himself the first throw. He was a flash-in-the-pan sort of a genius. His sufferings were indescribable, for he was sensitive, but there wasn't a man in town had a word of sympathy for him. Everybody said it served him just right, and the school children jollied him, and the local paper printed a horse laugh three columns long, and life became such a burden that Keramith left the town between two days, and all he left behind him was his pride. And the swelled-up man always breaks his shin against a snag."

NASHVILLE, TENN.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Nashville, the capital of Tennessee, and the repository of most of its history, lies in the writhing coils of the Cumberland river in the north central part of the state. It is so conveniently situated that the midnight choo-choos leave for Alabam, Memphis and Cincinnati and get to these places in time for breakfast without over-exertion. Nashville has 110,000 people and is filled up in history which is good enough to keep all these proud, and to supply plenty of surplus pride for future use. It was founded in 1780 when the middle west consisted of Indians and malaria in equal doses, and for many years it was the western outpost of civilization. Nashville, produced two presidents and educated a third in politics and has at present the youngest and best-thinged member of the United States senate. It has survived two wars, a centennial exposition and the Carmack affray and in spite of the fact that it has been the storm center of Tennessee politics for over a century, it is still in a good state of preservation.

Nashville is noted for its fine, Grecian state house, its Parthenon in Centennial park, its beautiful residence section lined with stately mansions and shaded with southern trees, its belligerent newspapers, its fierce and uncontrollable equestrian statue of its greatest citizen, Andrew Jackson, its soldiers' cemeteries and its colleges. Nashville has so many colleges that they have to be listed alphabetically in the directory and a composite of their various yells would make the old-time Rebel yell sound squeaky and peaceable.

Nashville was built in the green hills beside the river and its streets undulate over them in a manner which keeps her automobiles shifting gears with great industry. It does not use its glorious history as a slumber couch, but works diligently producing hardwood lumber and selling goods to all the country. It is a city or two behind Memphis in population, but yields to it in no other particular, and it takes four Chattanooga men to keep a Nashville man and a Memphis man in order while they are discussing their cities together.

Unsatisfactory College Heads.

(President William T. Foster, in Science.)

Of the one hundred and five colleges and universities that I have visited, I have become sufficiently acquainted with possibly fifty-one to form judgments concerning the success of their presidents in meeting the expectations of those whom they served. Of the fifty-one presidents, thirty-four appear to be unsatisfactory. I mean that a majority of the faculty, students and alumni of thirty-four institutions appear to be in favor of a new president. In other words, if my observations are correct, two college presidents out of three are regarded as failures.

WOMAN IS REBELLING AGAINST PARASITISM

Dr. John E. White Predicts She Will Soon Secure Her Rights in World.

That the woman's movement, which has assumed such magnitude in all parts of the world, had its origin in the effort of the female portion of mankind to escape from parasitism and to take up its share of earth's burdens and responsibilities was the conclusion drawn by Dr. John E. White in a sermon preached at the Second Baptist church yesterday morning. His subject was, "The Coming Woman," and his text, "What wilt thou, Queen Esther?"

Movement Bound to Succeed.

Dr. White said that it was a fact that could not fail to impress the most short-sighted observer that there was a great ferment working in the minds of women throughout the world, which had resulted, in a large measure, in revolutionizing the conceptions held by them towards their duties and their place in the general scheme of life. What had started as evolution had rapidly grown to the dimensions of a revolution, and the speaker did not hesitate to predict the complete triumph at no distant date of the woman's movement in all the most progressive nations.

"Women are no longer satisfied to be the mere dependents of men," the preacher declared. "They are clamoring for their proportionate share of the world's work, its responsibilities and its rewards. The attitude of man towards woman in the past has been that of a benevolent despot and he is naturally inclined to resent her dissatisfaction at the position of dependence in which he has placed her, but it may not remain so much longer. Woman is asserting her freedom and she will soon establish her God-given right to an equal share in all of man's activities—industrial, political and religious."

How Woman Lost Her Work.

Dr. White gave a resume of the part played by women in the development of civilization and showed how her position had been radically changed in the last two or three generations by the progress of invention, which had relieved them of nearly all of their former duties. The savage woman stood by her husband's side in the chase and often even on the field of battle; in the semi-civilized state she cultivated the fields, spun and wove and made the garments of the family, and pounded the meal for their bread in a mortar. All this has changed. With the progress of civilization, man's attention had been drawn away from war and the chase, he had invaded the field of industry, which had formerly been woman's exclusive sphere, and woman found herself without anything to do.

She must either content herself with a parasitic existence or else demand a part in the world's work and responsibilities. The true cause of the woman's movement was to be found in her rebellion against parasitism. It was useless to talk with sentimental longing of the old-fashioned woman who, if she could return to the world, would find conditions so changed that she would not be able to take her place in it.

To Save Her, Man Must Reform.

Dr. White spoke of the probable effects which the success of the woman's movement would have upon society. For one thing, he said, it would do away forever with the double standard of morals. Some of the modern fashions of dress, he declared, would indicate a willingness on the part of the women to abandon their own standard of morals and to accept man's in its place.

This might go to even further lengths than it has already, but in the end it would result in man himself calling a halt. Seeing that there could no longer be a separate standard of morals for each sex, he would accept the standard formerly held up for women as his own, rather than witness her degradation by taking his.

QUIET DAY FOLLOWS AMERICUS LYNCHING

Police Chief Barrow Still in Critical Condition—Lynchers Denounced by Ministers.

Americus, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—Although the local military, under instructions from Governor Brown, continued upon guard duty this morning, following the rioting here last night, there was no need today for the troops, as before 10 o'clock last night the lynchers of the negro, William Redding, had dispersed and the streets were quiet.

The condition tonight of Police Chief Barrow, whom Redding shot wantonly and deliberately, is still precarious. The bullet from Chief Barrow's pistol, which Redding had wrenched from the chief's hands, passed entirely through his body, penetrating the liver. Chief Barrow's temperature is high tonight and, while hope of recovery is entertained, his condition is precarious, as he is 72 years old.

The barbaric features attending the lynching of Redding were brutal in the extreme and are roundly denounced by many today. The negro was probably dead before the lynching party reached the Buchanan corner, in the principal retail district, where he was strung up. As Redding was dragged along the streets he was beaten with a crowbar in the hands of one of the party, and it is stated that he was practically dead when the lynchers left the jail.

After Redding was strung to a telephone pole at the corner of Cotton and Lamar streets, under the glare of electric lights, thousands of bullets were fired into the swaying body until his clothing was actually shot from his person, leaving it nearly bare.

The shooting continued for half an hour, parties passing the spot long after the lynching stopping to take a shot at the swaying target. Later it was cut down, saturated with kerosene oil and burned upon the spot.

Ministers from local pulpits this morning denounced the acts of last night. Following the lynchers and witnessing the fearful scenes were numerous small boys in their teens. None of the lynchers attempted disguise or concealment, and executed their work openly and fearlessly.

SON OF MACON'S MAYOR SAVES DROWNING GIRL

Miss Mary Horne Was Sinking for Third Time When Rescued by Joseph Moore.

Macon, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—Miss Mary Horne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Horne, 237 High street, almost lost her life while in swimming at Lakeside park, Saturday afternoon. Efforts were made to keep the occurrence quiet, but the story leaked out tonight.

Miss Horne, against the advice of friends, started to swim to a scaffold in the center of the lake, where the water is 20 feet deep. When half way out she became exhausted and called for help.

Joseph Moore, son of Mayor John Moore, was resting on the bathhouse walk. He dove into the water and went to Miss Horne's assistance, reaching her as she went down for the third time. Others came to his assistance and they got her safely to shore. It took ten minutes to resuscitate the young woman. Today she was reported as fully recovered.

WOMAN MAY FACE TRIAL FOR INFANTICIDE TODAY

Waycross, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—Unless there is a motion for postponement, which is just as apt to be filed with the court tomorrow as not, Mrs. W. C. Lanier may be placed on trial in Ware superior court before tomorrow passes on the charge of killing a baby boy here on April 5.

To make certain the securing of a jury an entirely new panel of jurors has been summoned for the adjourned term of court. Interest in the trial is unusually high, and a record-breaking crowd is expected to attend.

The last woman tried in Ware superior court for murder was found guilty and given a 20-year sentence on the state farm. This was in 1911. The husband of Mrs. Lanier has been tried for murder growing out of the same case and was given a life sentence.

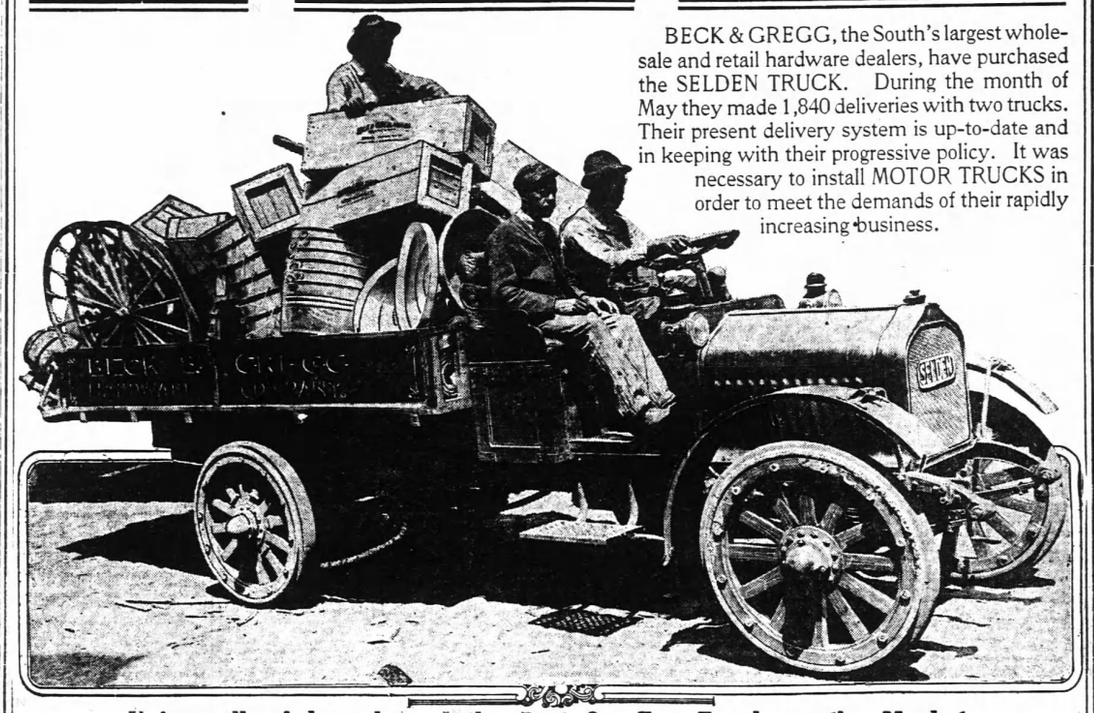
Two More Large Atlanta Firms Buy Selden Trucks



BECK & GREGG, the South's largest wholesale and retail hardware dealers, have purchased the SELDEN TRUCK. During the month of May they made 1,840 deliveries with two trucks. Their present delivery system is up-to-date and in keeping with their progressive policy. It was necessary to install MOTOR TRUCKS in order to meet the demands of their rapidly increasing business.

Universally Acknowledged the Best One-Ton Truck on the Market

Your horses cannot compete with the motor truck. It has come to stay. It offers more for less than horses ever could. And the longer you delay installing a truck the more you fall behind—lose business to competitors more progressive than you.

These two firms, like others, saw the truth of this statement. They realized that their horses were too inefficient and expensive. They studied the Selden truck from every angle—and bought. Ask them what they think of this sturdy, speedy carrier that hauls a 50% overload and has a 10,000-mile Tire Guarantee; that asks no odds of either weather or road; that is always on the job and eats only when it works.

Exclusive Selden Service for Exclusive Selden Owners

JEFFERS LIME CO. has displaced the services of 3 Mule Teams with this Selden Truck. Their quick dispatch service in the delivery of Lime, Cement and Sewer Pipe to all parts of the city and suburbs has greatly increased their business and has made them a known factor as a progressive firm.

BLUE AND GRAY AT GETTYSBURG

Everything in Readiness for Reunion of Veterans on Bloody Field—40,000 Veterans Expected to Attend.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 22.—The hills of Gettysburg, where the armies of Meade and Lee pitched their tents fifty years ago, are flecked today with canvas, harbingers of the tented city which will soon arise on the battlefield. The army of civil war veterans from the north and the south—40,000 of them—are coming, some few in threadbare uniforms and all without their muskets, to hold a jubilee reunion on the fiftieth anniversary of the battle. Some of the scouts are already here; the advance guard will bivouac on the field within a week; the rank and file will follow them not more than forty-eight hours later.

Every star of the forty-eight in the American flag is expected to have here its own quota of veterans. They will soon be the guests of the national government, and of their respective states and territories, which jointly will spend more than a million dollars for their entertainment and comfort. To receive them the government and the state of Pennsylvania have made elaborate plans. One detail alone provides for furnishing the veterans more than 500,000 meals.

Over $500,000 for Reunion.

Pennsylvania has been planning for the celebration of the battle for more than four years. She has appropriated $413,000 as her share of the expense. Congress has appropriated $150,000 to defray the expenses of the government's participation, and named a commission to help carry out the plans. Every state and territory also accepted the general invitation to participate and nearly all of them appropriated money to transport veterans and commissions.

The big event is pitched in that part of the battlefield which lies southwest of Gettysburg. On nearly 300 acres of continuous ground 7,000 tents and more are going up under the supervision of the war department. They can flex partly on the scene of the first day's fighting and is not far from High Water Mark, where Pickett's famous charge shattered against the Union lines.

Five thousand tents have been erected for the exclusive use of the veterans. The camp has been laid out like a city. Each street and each tent has a number, so it will be easy for any veteran to look up a former comrade or foe. In the center of the camp will be the headquarters of the chief quartermaster. The veterans will be encamped according to states.

Eight Veterans to a Tent.

Although each tent is designed to accommodate twelve men, it has been planned to assign only eight veterans to each, so as to make them as comfortable as possible. Each veteran will have a separate cot, blankets and a mess kit, which will contain a cup, fork, knife, fork and spoon, and will become his personal property when he breaks camp. Each tent also will have two hand basins, a water bucket, candles and two lanterns. With the preparation of meals the veterans will have nothing to bother about, for he will have some and substantial and will be served at the ends of the company streets.

"Only veterans of the civil war will be provided food, shelter and entertainment within the great camp around the battlefield," reads the announcement of the commission. "Therefore, no woman or child or any man not a veteran will be given food, shelter or entertainment. No veteran should bring to Gettysburg any member of his family or other person for whom he will have to obtain food and quarters outside the camp unless all arrangements therefor have first been made for them before he or they come to Gettysburg."

No veteran will be permitted to bring a trunk into camp, his baggage being restricted to that which he can easily carry himself. The care of it will rest with him.

The Principal Events.

The principal events of the celebration will be held on July 1, 2, 3 and 4, but in order to avoid congestion of traffic on the railroads and confusion at Gettysburg, the camp will be opened on Sunday evening, June 29, the first meal to be served at supper time. Twenty meals will be served to each veteran during the week, if he is in camp that long, and the camp will come to an end after breakfast on Sunday, July 6.

Veterans have planned to visit historic places in and about the great area where the battle was fought and where skirmishes occurred that led up to it, and to hold reunions. The great celebration will be in full swing on the morning of July 1, exactly fifty years to the day from the time the battle opened to the west of the town.

The program for the four big days is briefly as follows:

July 1—Veterans' day. Appropriate exercises under the joint direction of the Pennsylvania commission and the commanders-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans.

July 2—Military day. Under the direction of the chief of staff of the United States army.

July 3—Civic day. Under the direction of the governor of Pennsylvania, presiding and participated in by the governors of the states, if they so desire. Addresses and music.

July 4—National day. Patriotic exercises, orations, with fireworks in the evening.

Exercises in a Great Tent.

The exercises will be held in a great tent, one of the largest in the United States, capable of accommodating about 15,000 persons. This tent is on the southern end of the camp, beside the Emmittsburg road, down which Lee's army went after the close of the three days' battle.

Except for the time the main exercises are being held, the big tent will be given over to the veterans to hold such receptions as they may arrange. The tent is so constructed that it can be subdivided into many sections for these reunions. For the identification of old soldiers who may not be easily recognized by former comrades because of the changes wrought by the hand of Time, each veteran is expected to wear his army, corps, division, brigade, regimental and society badges.

After the principal exercises on July 4 there is no schedule of events except such as may be arranged by the veterans themselves in the way of reunions and short excursions about the field and to neighboring places.

United States troops, whose camp will adjoin that of the veterans, will do constant police duty. Boy scouts will act as guides. Pennsylvania's state police also will be on duty.

The United States government has erected a mammoth field hospital close to the camp, fully equipped. The state also will have its hospital tents and the state commissioner of health will keep deputies in camp for constant inspection work. The state fire marshal, in addition, has assigned men to the camp and steps have been taken to prevent fires and to extinguish them promptly should any occur.

Special Mean Arranged.

The commissary department will be under the direct charge of regular army officers and will be one of the most complete ever organized for a camp. There will be nearly 800 cooks; 125 bakers will furnish fresh bread every day for the big army.

The greatest care has been taken in arranging for the twenty meals that will be served during the week. The menu was written with due regard for the age of the men. It will be quite different from the hard tack and coffee and the occasional portion of bean soup or "sow belly" given the soldiers in the historic days of fifty years ago. This part of the camp arrangements is in the care of Major William H. Grove.

The town of Gettysburg, which has a population of a little more than 4,000, will be unable to care for the influx of visitors and thousands of them will be cared for in neighboring towns and cities as far away as Harrisburg and York. Practically every private house in Gettysburg will be turned into a boarding house. Many veterans who desire to attend the reunion and want to bring members of their families have been unable to obtain accommodations and must leave them behind.

Specially invited guests of the state and national government will be given quarters in the seminary west of Gettysburg and in the buildings of Pennsylvania college, north of the town.

USE OF WATER URGED FOR NEGROES OF CITY

Rev. H. N. Proctor urged upon his people at the First Congregational church, colored, yesterday morning the use of water internally, externally and eternally as a temperance measure.

Among other things, he said:

"There is a movement in the land which will not cease until we have total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the state. In the prosecution of this movement we must attack the saloonkeeper, the saloon, liquor and the liquor drinker. We must do this not only sentimentally, but practically; not only negatively, but positively; not only socially, but politically.

"I propose that our church do some practical temperance work this summer, beginning next week. I suggest that we put on the outside of this church a barrel of ice water daily, free to all. That will take away from some the excuse for going to a saloon to get a cold drink. In addition, I propose that we open our shower bath free to the public during the remaining summer months. One hundred dollars will enable us to do this. If the entire colored race could be induced to take a daily bath it would go far toward a solution of the problem confronting us."

A liberal contribution was taken at the close of the service for the provision of free water and free baths.

JULY COTTON REPORT WILL AFFECT PRICES

Report More Uncertain Than Usual Though Majority of Traders Expect Some Gain.

New Orleans, La., June 22.—In the cotton market this week interest will grow in the July condition report, Wednesday will end the period to be considered in this report and toward the end of the week several private estimates of what it will be will probably make their appearance.

This report is more of an uncertain quantity than usual. It will be received with more serious consideration than last month's report, which was generally thought to be too early to be of any value. Opinions concerning the percentage of condition to take effect vary widely. There are some bulls who profess believe that the condition has fallen below last month's low figures, but bears, and probably the majority of traders, believe that some gain has been made.

The chief setback in this period was the cold weather of about a week ago.

The pending report will compare with 79.1 on May 25 with 80.4 on June 25 last year, 88.2 on June 25 two years ago and 80.7 on June 25 three years ago. Should evidence come in to strengthen bullish claims concerning the figures it is probable that prices would be quickly and strongly affected, but bearish claims, unless accompanied with indisputable proof of their worth, would not have a like effect because the market, new crops and all, is so strongly supported by the strength of the July position.

Operations in July will be closely watched, as there are many stories afloat concerning the intentions of spot interests regarding that position. Any sign of extensive liquidation of long holdings would cause a severe break, as it would be taken to mean that a settlement had been effected and probably a large part of the trade expects a settlement in July sooner or later, although leading longs are loud in declaring that they want actual cotton for their contracts. Indications that an actual squeeze is threatened would mean the very difficult for good crop and weather news, or other bearish influences, to have much weight.

TOO MANY AMERICANS ARE GOING TO CANADA

Washington, June 22.—While committees of both houses of congress are preparing to press immigration reforms at the next session, Speaker Clark is giving attention to the other side of the question. Emigration, the speaker said in a statement tonight, is costing the United States millions of dollars a year in actual money, aside from the loss involved in giving up a real American to be replaced by a foreign immigrant.

"It is high time," said Mr. Clark, "that more attention be paid to the influence of emigration upon our future. These Americans who are leaving us understand our institutions, our ways and our aspirations, while most of the immigrants who are coming to this country have to be taught these things.

"In one week not long since, 1,846 American farmers, with $38,500 in cash and $145,000 in personal property, crossed into Western Canada to settle permanently in British North America. That's an average of $388 per capita, and that week was below the yearly average into that region alone. How many go to other countries I do not know.

"These emigrants are among our best citizens. I am personally acquainted with 200 or 300 of them. There is not a bad or shiftless man in the lot. They are seeking to better their condition. The principal reason they expatriate themselves is the lure of cheaper lands and a less stringent land law as to homesteading, etc.

"Congress should make our homesteading laws as easy as possible, compatible with safety, and should increase the area for home-building by judicious encouragement of both irrigation and drainage. A statistician has figured that the average adult citizen is of the money value of $1,000, considered solely as an asset to the country. If this is true, the 1,845 American farmers who crossed the Canadian border depleted the assets of our republic that week by $2,378,500, which, multiplied by 52, would make the grand annual total of $123,682,000 public wealth gone to Canada alone."

DILLON IS IMPROVING FROM ATTACK OF HEAT

Washington, June 22.—(Special.)—J. R. M. Dillon, of Atlanta, was reported to be much improved today by the authorities at the Emergency hospital. He was taken there yesterday afternoon being overcome by the heat.

Representative Howard called at the hospital today and learned from Mr. Dillon that he was at Mechanicsville, Md., when he suffered the heat prostration. A traveling friend rushed him to the Emergency hospital, where he was given prompt treatment. Dr. Calvert says he will be out in a few days.

AT THE THEATERS.

Musical Comedy Tabloid.

(At the Bijou.)

This afternoon and tonight will bring to the Bijou one of its best attractions in the engagement of "The Merry Whirl," a musical comedy tabloid with the enviable reputation of being the most pretentious, spectacular, scenic and brilliantly costumed condensed musical comedy on the circuit. Two special sets of scenery, with remarkable light effects, will furnish the background for the comedy. A clever company of twenty-five people, including a dainty chorus of girls, will interpret the many musical numbers, and during the intermission between the first and second act there will be several good vaudeville acts to keep the audiences amused and interested.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

For this week at the Forsyth there is going to be a bill that will unquestionably keep the busy theater crowded.

The headline feature will be Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore, in just about the niftiest singing and dancing act that has been placed on any stage. "Ideal," the world's champion lady swimmer and diver, will be the attraction at the Grand. She will perhaps give a private exhibition for ladies only during her engagement. Among the other good numbers will be the Six Musical Cuttys, in a great instrumental and vocal musical act. Minnie Allen, a pretty comedienne, and the Ridings and Doc O'Neil, the comedian, has stories that will help in the hit-making. The Four Hayama Japs in gymnastic stunts and Dorothy Richmond and company complete the bill.

"Quo Vadis."

(At the Grand.)

"Quo Vadis" and George Klein's superb photo drama spectacle that aroused so much enthusiasm in New York and is nightly crowding the Astor theater and is duplicating its success in Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore, will be presented for the second week at the Grand, starting with matinee today. From every viewpoint this is the most marvelous achievement in photo drama realm and richly deserves its success. It is dramatic, spectacular and thrilling at the same time. The multitude of incidents contained in Henry Sienkiewicz's world-famed story from which the picture was made have been more by the authorities at the Emergency than faithfully reproduced and all the romantic and historic values retained.

WILSON TO MAKE CURRENCY SPEECH

ment and loaned to the regional reserve banks. This is in harmony with the democratic platform.

"There is no surrender of the government's right to issue money. The board of control is appointed by the president. Thus, the people, acting through the government, are in entire control. This is a necessary protection of the public's interests and ought not to be objectionable to the banks. The duties of the central board are so important that they could not with justice to the public be committed to men representing private interests.

"The regional reserve banks are to represent not only the national banks of the district, but such state banks as are willing to put themselves upon a footing which will be equitable to the national banks. This is an important provision and gives to the state institutions a protection which they deserve, for they share with the national banks the responsibility of furnishing banking facilities to the business of the country.

Great Point of Advantage.

"The great point of advantage to the banks—an advantage that ought to make them willing to accept the bill without question—is that it furnishes a currency which they can secure in time of need, without having to put up bonds as security. The bond requirement largely neutralizes the advantage of the money issued on them, as security, because the banks cannot draw back more from the government than they have already invested in the bonds, but where a bank can put up good assets it is able at all times, without sacrifice, to secure any additional circulation that the commercial necessities of the banking board can be trusted to issue its treasury notes to the regional reserve banks on terms that will be fair and just.

"The business interests will, I think, welcome this bill as an unalloyed blessing. It gives them, through the banks, a promise of relief in any time of stringency, and it gives this promise without putting in the hands of the banks a power which might be used against them. The bill is a faithful fulfillment of the promises made in the Baltimore platform, which reads as follows:

"'We oppose the so-called Aldrich-monetary bill or the establishment of any central bank; and believe the people of this country will be largely freed from panics and consequent unemployment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or domination by what is known as the money trust.'

"This seems to me the accommodation of the public, and not for the control of business. All legislation on the subject of banking and currency should have for its purpose the securing of these accommodations on terms of absolute security to the public and of complete protection from the misuse of the power that wealth gives to those who possess it."

"I feel sure that the democrats of the senate and house will fully give the support of the bill, and I am sanguine enough to believe that it will receive a cordial support from republicans as well."

Believed Congress Will Support Wilson

Despite the opinions of many house and senate members against the wisdom of enacting currency legislation at this session, administration leaders tonight said they were at a loss to understand why the house currency with which President Wilson will present the situation tomorrow, coupled with the statement of confidence of state, tonight show there can be any hesitation on the part of congress in complying with the president's desires.

The currency bill, made public last week, will be introduced in both houses, and the house banking and currency committee is expected "to meet early this week to begin consideration of the measure. Tariff will be under consideration by the senate democratic caucus most of the week. Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, hopes the caucus can conclude with the revised house bill by Thursday, but it is doubtful if the bill will be ready for the full finance committee before Monday. Certain it is that the Underwood-Simmons bill will not be reported to the senate before the special debate to get under way before July 4.

The caucus fight on free wool and free sugar will be the principal event of the week, so far as tariff is concerned. Some spirited discussion is expected over the agricultural schedule, but little real party lobbying is looked for. When the majority members of the committee report on the income tax feature on the bill there may be a lively discussion in view of a wide divergency of views among democrats as to the exemption which the senate committee has reduced from $4,000 to $3,000 for unmarried persons.

Some senators think it should be still lower.

Reform in Congress Appropriations.

For the first time in years a real reform in congressional appropriations appears to be in sight. In the early congresses all appropriation bills had to originate in one committee, the house committee on appropriations, but under the system in vogue the past twenty years or more, the military, naval, postoffice and other committees report bills for appropriations within their jurisdiction.

Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, chairman of the house appropriations committee, will favor the centering of appropriations in one committee in a speech Tuesday.

A caucus of the house democrats Wednesday afternoon will consider a report from a caucus budget committee including Representatives Underwood, Fitzgerald, Sherley, Garrett and others favoring a budget committee to supervise and regulate all appropriations and fix a maximum for the session. The caucus likely will discuss other matters, including the currency bill.

Members of the democratic congressional committee are lining up for the organization meeting tomorrow night to elect officers and prepare for the coming campaign. Several previous attempts to organize have failed. The leading candidates for the chairmanship are Representative Doremus of Michigan, Lloyd of Missouri, incumbent who has offered to give way to others after leading several congressional campaigns, Sabbath of Illinois and Cline of Indiana.

The subcommittee of the democratic majority of the committee on finance of the senate spent today in perfecting the income tax amendment to the tariff bill. The members put the conclusions reached last night in the full committee into shape to go before the caucus. It is understood that the amendment will go to the printer tomorrow, and be taken up in caucus Tuesday.

The committee reached the conclusion that the income of mutual insurance companies should be exempted from taxation under the Underwood bill, in so far as the companies are mutual. The mutual insurance company question has been one of the most difficult that had to be dealt with in revising the income tax law. The committee finally decided that many companies that claim to be mutual are only partially so, and decided that the only exemptions allowed this class of taxpayers should be upon so much of their incomes as may be actually mutual.

The committee also decided to put in the bill an amendment specifically exempting the incomes from investments by states and municipalities.

WILSON'S PEACE PLAN APPROVED BY NATIONS

Eighteen Powers Have Accepted Proposition—Bryan Makes a Statement.

Washington, June 22.—With the acceptance in principle of the president's peace plan by eighteen nations, Secretary Bryan has felt encouraged to develop some of the details of the plan which so far have been only generally outlined. Today he made a statement touching the composition of the protroversies, designed to investigate controversies, designed to meet suggested objections that it would be impossible to provide unbiased bodies of investigators whose findings would command respect of the principals.

The statement is as follows:

"Mr. Bryan, in stating to the newspaper men that eighteen nations had now accepted the principles of the president's peace plan, the last nation being Spain, gave one of the details suggested for the completion of the plan.

"The plan contemplates a permanent international commission and the president suggests that the commission be composed of five nations, as follows: One member from each of the contracting countries, to be chosen by the government; one member to be chosen by each of the contracting countries from some other country and the fifth member of the commission to be agreed upon by the two governments, the commission to be appointed as soon as convenient after the making of the treaty; vacancies to be filled according to the original appointment.

"This is merely a suggestion. This government is ready to consider any proposal that the contracting parties may desire to make."

CROPS ARE IMPROVING IN HOUSTON COUNTY

Perry, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—The past week has been favorable to the farmers and they have made good use of the sunshine in working out their crops which are beginning to look like something. It was ideal for cotton. Cotton is improving, but the stand is poor and the crop at least a month late. The grain crops have all been harvested and a good deal of it threshed.

LEO M. FRANK'S TRIAL JUNE 30, SAYS DORSEY

Solicitor General Hears Report That John Moore Will Assist in the Defense.

"Unless something now turns up of which I have no knowledge at present, I will set Leo Frank's trial for June 30," said Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey yesterday on his return from a week's stay in New York city.

While the solicitor's announcement has set at rest the rumors that the state would wait and set the trial for July 14 or 28, it does not necessarily mean that the trial will actually be held on that date, as the defense may desire to postpone it and make a showing to the court that would allow such a postponement. It means at least that the trial will come off at an early date.

"I have talked with Colonel Stephens," added the solicitor, referring to E. A. Stephens, his assistant, "and there is apparently nothing new in the case, and from all that I know the state is ready to go to trial.

Has Moore Entered Case?

"I see that Reuben Arnold and John Moore have entered the case for the defense since I left," said the solicitor.

He was told that the formal announce had been made that Attorney Arnold had become allied with the defense, but that Attorney Moore yet declined to discuss the general rumor that he was one of the defending attorneys.

Asked where he had heard that Attorney Moore had entered the case, the solicitor replied that he had only heard it around town. He gave no definite reply.

Solicitor Dorsey declared that while he had been away he had not even discussed the Phagan murder.

"I know nothing more of Frank than when I left," he asserted. "I did not even go to Brooklyn, his former home; I stayed in New York city the entire time.

Did Not Go to Brooklyn.

When the solicitor left it was rumored that he was on his way to Brooklyn to inquire into the past life of the indicted man, who formerly lived there and whose mother made her home there until she recently came here to be with her son's family while he was in jail and to comfort him at the trial.

"They say Frank's trial is coming off rather soon," said the solicitor, "but I don't see it that way. His is a jail case, and it is unusual for a man to stay in jail that long before a trial."

Asked about his trip further, the solicitor declared that he had enjoyed a splendid rest during his vacation and that the weather in New York and the theatrical attractions had been fine.

SHOWERS SWEEP ATLANTA SUNDAY

Rain Is Accompanied by High Wind—Temperature Drops and Atlantans Spend a Comfortable Night.

One of the heaviest wind and rain storms came up Sunday afternoon, following the electrical storm Saturday, that has been seen this summer, and the atmosphere, already cooled off by the previous storm, was rendered really cool by night.

Only one severe flash of lightning came with the storm of Sunday afternoon, but the rain was accompanied by a high wind from the west that drove it in slanting sheets against houses and buildings.

The rain was one of the regular summer showers that suddenly appear at this time of year, as if specially sent to cool off the heated atmosphere, and it had the result for which Atlantans were wishing.

Probably half an inch of rain fell during the time the precipitation continued, which was from 4 o'clock until about 5 in the afternoon.

Sunday was not as hot a day as at least four of the past week, due to the storm of Saturday evening, and the storm in the afternoon made the air cooler and more refreshing than it had been in the afternoon for at least a week.

Wind and rain invaded a millinery store Sunday afternoon when, during the heavy storm, a large plate-glass window in Mrs. C. H. Smith's millinery store at 115 Peachtree street was blown out.

A sale of summer hats was advertised and water ruined some of those in the show window before they could be removed. There was apparently no other damage done to the store.

FASHIONS ARE MENACE TO MORALS OF NATION

The Nude in Art Is Also Scored by Dr. Ogden, in Sermon on "Proper Clothing."

Present-day fashions in women's dress came in for severe denunciation as "a menace to the morals of the nation" in a sermon delivered Sunday night at the Central Presbyterian church by Dr. Dunbar Ogden. He declared that dress is a symbol of civilization and that letting down the bars of decency in dress is an indication of national deterioration in morals.

Dr. Ogden also denounced the nude in art, saying that the exhibition of nude pictures in Atlanta show windows, which recently attracted the attention of the city, is a crime and should be punished as such.

The theme running through the whole sermon was an appeal for decency in life and art. The text was taken from the parable of the marriage feast, when the guest came in without the proper clothing and was cast into outer darkness. From this parable story Dr. Ogden drew the parallel in the picture of modern life, pointing out the growing indifference of people to the proprieties of dress and sounding forth the clarion note of warning to the nation.

"Look at Rome, as we have viewed it on the motion picture screen in Atlanta this week, crumbling away the bonds of decency in Bacchanalian revelry," said Dr. Ogden. "We view there the moral disintegration which followed, and the eventual fall of the Roman civilization, which can be traced to this deterioration of the national character.

"Both in fashions and in art the tendencies toward indecency should be checked now, before they have further effect upon the minds of the young people of the nation, especially. Parents who allow their daughters to dress in the ultra-fashionable modes of the day are playing with a dangerous influence and they will be largely responsible for the effect on the young lives. How much better is the hoopskirt of olden days! This is one of the most serious questions confronting the American people, and one not to be jested about, for the future of the nation may rest in the balance in the consideration of this appeal for decency in life and art."

Henry L. Doherty & Co. are offering at par and accrued interest $2,000,000 7 per cent 5 year coupon convertible gold notes of the Cities Service Company, a part of which have already been placed with investors. This is a part of a total authorized issue of $10,000,000, of which $5,000,000 only are to be issued at this time, and $3,000,000 of these have already been sold in London. They are callable at 102 and interest, and are convertible into preferred stock of the company at any time prior to maturity at par. The safety of the issue as an investment is indicated by the fact that the preferred and common stocks following it on May 20 last had a market value of over $130,000,000, or more than three times the total issue of notes outstanding.

Earnings of the Cities Service Company have been unusually satisfactory since the company was organized, in 1910, and on May 31 last the profit and loss surplus stood at $825,031, while total assets on the same date were in excess of $34,000,000. On the basis of returns thus far in 1913, the company will earn over 12 per cent on its common stock this year, after payment of all expense, including interest on the new issue of notes. Monthly dividends are paid on both the preferred and common stocks of the company at the rate of 6 and 5 per cent per annum, respectively.—(adv.)

Boifeuillet and Northen Here For General Assembly Opening

So long have they been associated with the yearly gatherings of the legislature here in Atlanta that it may be truthfully said that the absence of no member of either branch, no matter what his prominence and length of service, would be half so badly missed as would that of the men who will call the two houses to order when they meet here on Wednesday.

They are, of course, Charles S. Northen, the perennially affable and ever-obliging clerk of the senate, and John T. Boifeuillet, clerk of the house whose priestly appearance and courtly manners long since won for him the sobriquet of the Georgia Chesterfield. For members come and members go, but they——

If They Should Be Missing.

Well, it need hardly be said that so much a part of the proceedings of the general assembly have they become that, if for any unforeseen cause or other, they should neglect to be away, both houses would unanimously organize themselves into searching parties and forthwith go out and find them.

Colonel Boifeuillet claims Macon as his residence, but for many years past most of the time, when not in Atlanta, has been spent in Washington, attending to his duties as private secretary of Senator A. O. Bacon. He arrived in the city Saturday evening and was as always cordially greeted by all the members of the legislature, new and old, ex and active, who glimpsed him as he passed through the lobby of the Kimball.

Mr. Northen lives in Atlanta, where he presides over the business in this state of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company—when he is not more actively engaged in business for the state itself.

All who are interested in the meetings of the general assembly will be glad to know that, with the veteran clerk of the senate and secretary of the senate, there will return this year the almost equally well known assistants who have been with them in recent sessions.

Assistants Will Return.

In the house will be heard again the clarion voice of D. F. McClatchey, of Cobb, the reading clerk. O. L. Gresham, of Burke, known as "Gresh" for short, will reassume his duties as journal clerk, while E. B. Moore, of Talliaferro, who, by the way, is not half so serious as he seems, will again look after the house calendar.

Over on the senate side, Judge Chas. P. Hansell, of Thomasville, comes back as assistant secretary; L. H. Brantley, of Georgetown, as chief clerk, and Chas. A. Rice, as calendar clerk. Flynn Hargett, of Atlanta, the veteran senate messenger, will also be back at his wonted task.

INDIAN TEACHER DIES FROM AUTO ACCIDENT

Thomas Jefferson Fails to Regain Consciousness After Being Struck.

Thomas Jefferson, the aged man who never regained consciousness after having been struck by an automobile Thursday night, died Sunday night at Grady hospital.

An autopsy will be held some time this morning, and an inquest has been ordered for this afternoon by Coroner Donehoo. Just what disposition will be made of the body is not known as yet. So far, no relatives of the dead man have appeared, and it is not known whether he has any in the city.

The accident occurred early Thursday night when Jefferson, who was more than sixty years old, attempted to cross Whitehall street, at the intersection of Mitchell. An automobile being driven across the corner by J. L. Hughes, of 330 Peachtree street, struck the man as he leaped from in front of another machine. Eyewitnesses declare that the Hughes car was traveling so slowly that it stopped instantly the man was struck. The aged man never regained consciousness, and it is thought his skull was crushed. He had been in Atlanta for several years, stopping at the Salvation Army barracks. He had been interested in army work, and will be given the full honors of a Salvation Army burial. He once was a teacher in an Indian school, and was a frontier figure in pioneer days.

No arrest has been ordered by the police in connection with the accident.

PINE WOOD IS WANTED FOR THE FEEBLE POPE

Rome, June 22.—Owing to the precarious health of the pontiff after his recent illness, it is understood negotiations are now going on between the holy see and Prince Torlano for the purchase of a pine wood owned by the prince which lies close to the vatican gardens. This wod can be reached either by means of an underground passage or an archway, and would enable the pope to enjoy a very much larger area for his walks. This section allows a magnificent view of the Roman campagna toward the Mediterranean.

PRESIDENT OF FRANCE TO VISIT KING GEORGE

Great Britain Is Preparing to Give M. Poincare Great Welcome.

London, June 22.—President Poincare, of France, following the example of his predecessors since the conclusion of the friendly agreement between his country and Great Britain, has chosen England for his first official visit after his election and will arrive at Spithead Tuesday on the dreadnought Jean Bart, to be the guest of King George and the British nation till June 27. He will be accompanied by Stephen Pichon, French minister for foreign affairs, and other high officials.

Great preparations have been made to pay the president the highest honors that the court, the government, the municipalities and the general public can accord.

The visit has aroused the liveliest interest throughout the country. While no important changes in political relations are anticipated, the hope of the public is that the visit will tend to draw even closer the two friendly countries.

Upon the president's arrival at Spithead he will be received by an immense fleet composed of England's newest warships, which will fire a royal salute.

He will proceed to Portsmouth docyard, where the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught, representing the king, will offer him a formal welcome.

King George will be at Victoria Station, London, to receive his guest and escort him to York House, which has been placed at his disposal. During the afternoon the president will pay formal calls to the king and queen at Buckingham Palace and to other members of the royal family.

That evening the king will give a dinner at Buckingham Palace. The guests will include the royal family, distinguished statesmen, diplomats and court officials. These formal dinners are carried out with a gorgeousness equalled in few European capitals. The gold service belonging to the sovereign is used, the tables and dining room are handsomely decorated with flowers and the brilliant uniforms of the assembly a glittering scene is presented.

On the 25th the president will attend the morning meeting of French institutions in London and receiving deputations from French societies. At noon on another great function, a luncheon given by the lord mayor and corporation of the city of London at the guild hall. President Poincare will meet the distinguished politicians and the business barons of England. In the evening the president will return the king's hospitality and offer him a dinner at the French embassy, presided over by Paul Cambon, the French ambassador, which will again bring together a brilliant gathering.

A visit to Windsor Castle, a lunch to the French colony and dinner with the government at the foreign office might be expected to fill up the next day, but M. Poicare hopes to attend the horse show at Olympia, where a number of French officers are competing. In the evening the series of functions ends with a dinner to an end with a ball at Buckingham Palace.

The next day the president will proceed to Dover, where he will see more of the British fleet, and embarking on the French warship Gloire, and escorted by her sister cruisers Conde and Marseillaise, will return to France.

RED FLOWER WORN IN HONOR OF FATHER

Father had his day at the Second Baptist church Sunday morning, when the exercises of the Sunday school were directed in honor of the "fathers of the country.

Appropriate services under the direction of Judge J. T. Pendleton were held. A number of children recited Biblical verses with the word father in it.

Judge Pendleton gave a short address, in which he said that a father was entitled to reverence from his children, and that it was the duty of the fathers to educate and disciplne the children.

A number of fathers were present for the occasion, and each wore a red flower in honor of the day. Special music was rendered.

Senator Culberson's friends are much concerned over his condition.

HOUSE AND SENATE MEMBERS ARRIVE

enough pledges of support to put him over on the first roll call.

Interest still continues unabated in the presidency of the senate contest with both candidates claiming more than enough pledged votes to elect.

"I am just as sure to get twenty-eight votes, if not more," said J. Rahdolph Anderson, of Chatham, last night, "as if the votes were already counted. I know whereof I speak because men elected to the Georgia senate do not sign their names to pledges which they do not intend to keep. When I heard that my opponent was claiming twenty-six votes, I went over my list again, verified every one of them and secured three more. I have all of their names down in black and white, and most of them know how the others stand.

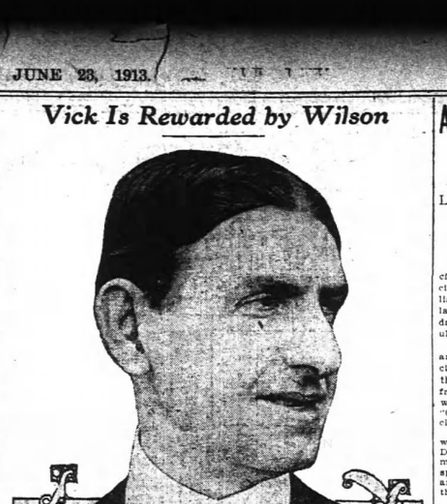
"I am especially gratified that, of the fifteen senators with whom I served in the house during past sessions, twelve have pledged themselves to vote for me. I do not think my opponent took into consideration the number of friends I had made in my previous service in the house when he entered the race against me."

Mr. Anderson will hold a preliminary caucus of his supporters Monday afternoon. On Tuesday afternoon, a second caucus will be held and he says that every one of the twenty-eight whom he has on his list has written him that he will be at that caucus. Mr. Anderson expressed himself as confident that Judge Allen would not remain in the race when he saw the strength that would manifest itself for him (Anderson) in that caucus.

Sunday Arrivals.

Among the members who arrived in the city Sunday were: Wallace Miller, of Bibb; E. H. McMichael, of Marion; J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter; W. J. Nunnally, of Floyd; Ernest Neal, of Gordon; W. H. Cook, of Chattahoochee; C. E. Stewart, of Coffee; W. L. Dorris, of Douglas, and Senators M. E. Rushin, of the Fourteenth; W. J. Bush, of the Eighth; R. T. DuBose, of the Thirtieth, and C. B. McGregor, of the Nineteenth.

Vick Is Rewarded by Wilson



The appointment of Walker W. Vick, of Burlington, N. J., as customs receiver at Santo Domingo is very favorably received. Mr. Vick gained a wide reputation for his business efficiency through the way in which he handled the funds of the democratic national committee, the post to which he has been appointed is one of the most important in the gift of the administration, because all the fiscal affairs of Santo Domingo come under the supervision of the receiver general. He will have charge of ten custom houses, the Haitian border interests and the $20,000,000 bond issue floated recently. This office carries a salary of $8,500 a year. It is provided for by treaty arrangement between the United States and Santo Domingo, and the president of the United States has the right to name the collector. Mr. Vick will be required to live in Santo Domingo. Mr. Vick is assistant secretary of the democratic national committee and was secretary of the inaugural committee that had charge of the arrangements for the inauguration of President Wilson. They called him the stake manager of the inauguration. He has been a live wire from the start in Wilson's behalf. He is a native of North Carolina and practices law in New York. When Woodrow Wilson was a candidate for governor of New Jersey Mr. Vick took charge of his political interests in Bergen county. The county was carried by the democrats. Mr. Vick then became active in the effort to nominate Governor Wilson for the presidency and managed the Wilson preconvention campaign in the tier of south Atlantic states from North Carolina to Florida inclusive. In the presidential campaign he was in charge of the New York headquarters of the democratic national committee.

S. S. ATTENDANCE IS ABOVE 1912 AVERAGE

Nineteen Schools Show Average Increase of 55 Over Same Sunday Last Year.

In spite of the extremely hot weather of a real June Sunday morning, 19 Atlanta Sunday schools which are entered in the attendance publicity agreement drew 1,044 more people to their sessions this Sunday than they did on the same day in 1912.

Statistics compiled for these 19 schools show that they had 6,382 people present Sunday, as against 5,341 present the fourth Sunday of June last year. The average attendance of the schools has thus grown from 281 to 336—a gain of 55 pupils per school.

These figures are taken as an indication of the steady, lasting growth that is taking place in the Sunday schools of Atlanta. While the average gain of Sunday a week ago was 80 over last year, the figure of 55 reached this week is believed to be a substantial gain in itself. The agreement to compare attendance figures through the columns of the press was made by these schools barely a few weeks ago, to last for a period of three months, and it is believed that just the publication of the figures will in itself serve as a stimulation to the Sunday school attendance of the city, through calling attention to the real growth taking place. The figures as announced by the statistics committee are as follows:

	Church membership	Attendance year ago	Attendance Sunday
First Methodist	1,400	292	396
Tabernacle	1,200	540	543
Central Presbyterian	1,246	550	609

8-HOUR LAW WANTED FOR RAILWAY WORKERS

Philadelphia, June 22.—An universal eight hour law for railroad workers and the perfecting of a system whereby trainmen will be enabled to spend their off time at their homes are reforms to be desired, declared William B. Wilson, secretary of labor, in the principal address at the annual memorial service of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and other union railroad organizations here today.

"There is no economic reason why a railroad labor schedule should call for sixteen hours as the maximum of a day's labor, and the time will come when the day will be shortened," said Secretary Wilson. "It will take time to bring about this change, because the transportation systems are immense and there will be opposition, yet I hope to see the time when there will be eight hours for work. I don't expect this in the near future, but I say it will come."

Those Popular Excursions to Warm Springs via A., B. & A., commence Sunday, May 25. Only $1 round trip. Train leaves Union Station at 8 a. m.

HAT STORE ON FIRE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Central Blaze Draws Big Crowd to Watch Work of Fire Laddies.

Quick work on the part of fire ladies stopped what might have been a serious fire Sunday afternoon when the interior of the IXL hat store, 4 West Mitchell, caught on fire at about 5 o'clock.

By the time the engines arrived the blaze had made good headway, and only by the quickest work were the firemen able to keep the fire within the hat store, which was a total loss. Thomas Tailoring company, occupying the next store, with but a thin partition between, was saved by the firemen breaking through the glass door, and putting rubber blankets over the entire stock.

The stock of the IXL Hat company, owned by S. S. Wood, was a complete loss. The Rhodes-Wood Furniture company, which occupied the two upper stories and the entire Whitehall front of the building, was not damaged at all.

Federation of Zionists.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 22.—The Federation of American Zionists began its sixteenth annual convention in this city today. Following the annual reports of the officers, including that of President Louis Lipsky, of New York, a resolution calling upon the International Federation of Zionists to establish a home for Jews in Palestine, was adopted.

A banquet to the 300 visiting delegates was tendered by the local organization tonight.

ATLANTANS ENJOY LIFE AT THE BEACH

Large Number of Society People Spend Heated Term at Atlantic Beach.

Atlantic Beach, Fla., June 22.—(Special.—Society from many southern cities graced the spacious and brilliantly lighted ballroom of the Atlantic Beach hotel at the weekly dance, which is one of the most popular features of the social life here.

Maids and matrons whose names are household words in Atlanta society were among the dancers, and the floor was a scene of brilliancy from the opening strains of the first waltz until the orchestra rendered "Good-bye, Everybody, Good-bye" as a closing number.

It was an ideal evening for dancing, with the temperature at 79 degrees. Delightful cooling breezes from the moonlit ocean swept the ballroom and spacious piazzas, where the dancers and chaperons promenaded during the evening.

Among those noted were Miss Calhoun, in pale blue charmeuse, and Mrs. Reuben Arnold, in Alice blue crepe gown, with lace coat and large picture hat trimmed in blue, both of Atlanta.

Prominent Atlantans registered here include Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Arnold, Mrs. W. D. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rhodes, Mrs. Calhoun, Miss Calhoun, Mrs. L. T. The bathing beach was crowded today and under cloudless skies, with a fair sea running, a dip in the ocean proved very refreshing. Atlantans were again in evidence here.

RACE WORTH $30,200 WON BY ULTIMATUM

Paris, June 22.—She grand steeplechase de Paris, at four miles and one-half furlong, and valued at $30,200, was won today at the Auteuil track by Edmond Veil Pickard's Ultimatum. J. J. Prat's Marteau II. was second, and Baron Louis La Cases' Inquisitif third. The American owner, Eugene Pischfof, finished fifth with Tripotli.

A brilliant June day brought out a record attendance. All twelve starters were of fine quality, and the race proved one of the best of the year. Ultimatum was the first favorite to fully justify expectations, and won easily by two lengths. The betting was:

Ultimatum, 7 to 2; Marteau II., 61 to 10; Inquisitif, 47 to 10.

A Live Prize.

LOCAL merchants have at odd times offered prizes to the Atlanta players for best hitting, best run-getting, best base stealing, etc. If some enterprising merchant would come along now and offer a prize to the player that gets on the coaching lines and raises the most sand he would do the team more good than he could possibly do with any other prize he might offer. This has been one of the principal Weaknesses of the team. Outside of Joe Dunn there is not a man on the team that can get out on the lines and raise enough fuss to be heard in the grand stand.

Cold Feet.

STORIES are being printed that Jim Flynn has recovered from his broken hand and will be ready to take on Gunboat Smith in the near future. It is mighty queer how a broken hand can mend as rapidly as Flynn's has. These broken hands are very accommodating. He got one of them just before the Flynn fight, if the truth were known the trouble is with his feet, not with his hands. "Frigeritis of the feet" is his disease.

Lands Good Job.

PAT GRAHAM, former Cracker receiver, has landed a good job. He has been signed to manage the Columbus club of the Cotton States league, succeeding Bob Kennedy. Atlanta fans wish Pat well. He was always popular here.

Is in Good.

JIMMY Johnston, the former Baron, is the sensation of the coast. The way the former Slaqville center gardener is playing out west has them all sitting up and taking notice. His manager thinks so strong of Johnston that he hands him this: "Give me one more man like Jimmy and I would walk home with the old pennant." Pacific coast fans are of the opinion that Johnston will go to the big leagues this fall and this time he will stick.

Well Represented.

ATLANTA will be well represented at the southern tennis championships which start at New Orleans today, and if her representatives play the kind of tennis that they played during the Georgia state tennis tournament last week Atlanta will hang onto the trophies that are now in her possession. Carleton Smith, Neal Thornton, B. M. Grant, E. V. Carter, Jr., and E. S. Mansfield, the five strongest players in Atlanta, will be at the tournament.

Get Them Ready.

THE HEADLINE "Giants take lead in National league pennant race," can be set and held for use most any day now. McGraw's men are going at a clip that bodes ill for the Phillies and it seems as if a machine will have to now before the former champions resume their place at the head of the column.

The Bad Break.

THE PIRATES went along for quite a while playing poor baseball, baseball that was keeping them in the second division. Then all of a sudden they found themselves and started playing good ball, but the break was against them and they could not win. Seven straight games went to the opposition by a margin of one run, and in losing these seven games the Pirates were the victims of some of the weird plays that happen in baseball every now and then.

Lost the Pinch.

THE TROUBLE with the Crackers during the home stay just closed was that they lost the "pinch." The team made enough hits during the week to win every game and their twirlers pitched a fairly good game of baseball, but when it came to the point of the old pinch, the place where the team has been so formidable, the blows did not come with any regularity and the games slipped away as the result. They are hitting enough when they start bunching them with out as the pitchers seem to be able to at least twirl consistently now something which they lacked the first part of the season.

A Real Hurler.

THIS BOY Comeiman will do. He's just about the coolest proposition when pitching that it has ever been our pleasure to witness. Nothing seems to disturb him and no matter how they may start hitting him he comes right back and settles them over for them to hit some more. And he has a lot of stuff to back up this confidence. If Paul Musser could get a little of Comelman's confidence and control, the local staff, with Dent and Price going good, would round out into one that could carry the burden for the rest of the season.

Is Improved.

HARDGROVE, the injured Birmingham pitcher, is improving so rapidly that it is expected that he will be back in harness again at the end of the present week. Atlanta fans will be glad to learn this. They are all kindminded enough not to wish any one any such ill luck as would befall the Barons to lose Hardgrove, right at this particular writing. When Boyl gets back into regular working trim again the Barons ought to start winning regularly.

Thistle Wins Viking Trophy.

Wallace, won the Lipton Viking trophy for boats manned by amateurs, and the Katinka re captured the day cup in the New York Athletic club's 100-mile power boat race which started off Whortleberry island yesterday and ended here today. The Thistle's time was 11:21:45, sixty-two seconds ahead of the Frances H., which came in second.

Whitey's Hitting Features Crackers' Win From Pels; Only One Game Played

PRICE V. EVANS.

New Orleans, June 22.—(Special.) "Gil" Price will face Rube Evans in today's game, only one game being scheduled. The postponed game will be played July 20.

By Sam L. Gilbert.

New Orleans, June 22.—(Special.)—Atlanta Eddie Dented our brave boys in the opening game of the series Sunday, 4 to 2. Whitey Alpermann's big stick had much to do with the mangling of the Pelicans on the rack of defeat, but without Dent's splendid pitching in the pinches it would have been altogether different.

Chief Frank chucked Buck Brenton against the visitors, but Buck hurt his hip in fielding Welchonce's roller in the first inning and retired on the completion of the round. Bert Brenner going in and getting his in the salubrious sixth, when the Crackers cracked three singles and two doubles, which netted three markers.

The other changes in the Pelican line-up were Red Williams taking Atz's place at third so as to enjoy a workout in the seventh inning, and Finis Wilson batting for Brenner in the last half of the eighth.

The visitors played fairly good ball, but Billy Smith had a wrecking crew limbering up right along to relieve Dent in the latter part of the pastime if he weakened very considerably.

Rain Prevents First.

A heavy rain and windstorm threatened to prevent any argument. When time for starting the first game of the scheduled double-header arrived the field resembled a lake. The crowd kept increasing, however, and it was agreed to play one game.

Alpermann's record with the hickory was a pippin. He grabbed two doubles and two singles in his first four trips to the platter. Spencer erred on his single in the first, but he was left stranded at second.

Dent drew four wide ones in the third, and after Long and Welchonce had been retired, Whitey whacked a two-timer to left, driving Dent across. Agler singled in the fourth and was left on first.

Alpermann started a ruction in the sixth by a smokey liner that was too warm for Snedecor. After Bailey had fanned, Smith doubled to center field fence and made third on Clancy's error of the throw-in. Bisland's single scored Wally and a single by Dunn followed by Dent's double sent Bixz into the run column.

Whitey's Fourth Hit.

Alpermann's fourth safety, a two-bagger, was torn off in the seventh. One was out, but Bailey, next up, skied to McDowell, and after Brenner had purposely passed Smith, Bisland was tossed out by Brenner. With Evans pitching the ninth, Adams threw out Long, and after Welchonce had gone safe on McDowell's error, Alpermann hit into a double play, Clancy to McDowell to Snedecor.

The Pels were not there in the pinch. Dent was invincible, save in the sixth. In this inning Spencer walked, McDowell singled, Snedecor moved them up by his infield out, and Adams busted a beauty to right for a bag. Long's pretty throw should have gotten McDowell, but Dunn muffed. Brenner then fanned, and Kyle raised to Agler.

Twelve Birdies languished and died on the pillows, two in the first, two more in the second, and as many as three in the seventh.

Mobile, Ala., June 22.—Mobile won the opening game of the series from Birmingham this afternoon by a score of 3 to 2, in a well-played game. Prough was hit hard, but they were kept scattered except in the first and third innings. Cavet was a puzzle to the visitors, two errors giving them one of the runs. The victory marked the sixth straight win for Cavet. O'Dell, who has been out with a split finger, returned to the game and his work featured. At bat he had a perfect average with two singles and a double in three times at bat and he started a fast double in the ninth, which prevented a threatened Birmingham rally.

Lookouts Drop Two.

Memphis, Tenn., June 22.—Memphis won both games of today's double-header over Chattanooga, 6 to 3 and 4 to 1. Covaleskie, with two successive victories to his credit, pitched the first game for the visitors, and, with better support, might have won. In the second game Kroh pitched splendid ball for six innings, and the advantage was with Elberfeld's men. In the seventh he weakened and Memphis players made enough runs to win.

The Crackers' third-sacker, snapped by The Constitution's staff photographer in one of his characteristic poses at the bat. In this position "Wallop" is familiar to all the fans. It's natural. He looks like he is set for one of those famous drives of his that has made him feared by all the Southern league twirlers.

PREACHER FAN DIES AFTER TEAM'S RALLY

Cleveland, June 22.—The exciting finish of the Cleveland-Detroit baseball game Saturday proved too much for Rev. Thomas S. Hodgson, aged 70, of Willoughby, who dropped dead of heart failure on a street while on his way home from the game. Rev. Hodgson was a retired Baptist minister. He was accompanied to the game by Rev. Emery Beach, also of Willoughby, who took Rev. Hodgson's body home.

Atlanta Tennis Stars Enter Southern Championships; First Matches Start Today

The twenty-sixth annual tennis tournament for the championship of the south will begin today on the nine-turf courts of the New Orleans Lawn Tennis club at New Orleans.

Men's singles, men's doubles and ladies' singles will be the three events that will be contested and prizes will be awarded in each event. Consolation singles will also be held, in which all players defeated in the first round actually played will be eligible to participate.

The winner in the men's singles must meet Carleton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, the present title holder, and holder of the challenge cup in that event.

Former Winners.

This cup was originally presented by the Atlanta Athletic club and become the property of the player winning it three times. It has been won twice by Conrad E. Doyle, of Washington, and Dr. Nat Thornton, of Atlanta, and once each by T. R. Pell, of New York, R. C. Hunt, of California, and C. Y. Smith, of Atlanta.

C. Y. Smith and Nat Thornton, of Atlanta, are the present title holders of the challenge cups in the men's doubles. As this team will not play together this season, the winners of the tournament in doubles will win the trophies also.

C. B. Doyle and H. E. Doyle, of Washington, and B. M. Grant and Dr. Nat Thornton, of Atlanta, have won it twice each. H. G. Whitehead and T. H. Winston, of Norfolk; T. R. Pell and W. C. Grant, of New York, and C. Y. Smith and Nat Thornton, of Atlanta, have won it once each.

But unlike the singles, the title holders in doubles are required to play through the tournament.

Ladies' Tourney.

The challenge cup in the ladies' singles is presented by the New Orleans Lawn Tennis club and becomes the property of the person winning it three times. The winner of the ladies' singles has the right to challenge Mrs. Sanders Taylor, the present title holder, for the championship of the south.

The winners of the men's doubles will represent the south at the United States Lawn Tennis association national doubles at Chicago, and the winners of these matches have the privilege of challenging the national champions at Newport. The winners of the southern doubles will be sent to Chicago at the expense of the New Orleans Lawn Tennis club.

All matches in the men's singles will be the best two out of three except the final and challenge rounds, when the best three out of five will be played. All matches in men's doubles will be best three out of five and in the ladies' singles, best two out of three.

Atlantans at Meet.

Atlanta will be well represented at the meet. Carleton Smith, the present title holder, will go to defend his title. His partner in the doubles, Dr. Nat Thornton, of Atlanta, have won it twice each. H. G. Whitehead and T. H. Winston, of Norfolk; T. R. Pell and W. C. Grant, of New York, and C. Y. Smith and Nat Thornton, of Atlanta, have won it once each.

But unlike the singles, the title

RACES IN MAJORS ARE CLOSE ONES

New York, June 22.—With New York and Philadelphia engaged in a hot fight for first place, and Brooklyn again playing superb ball, not far behind, the National league race has entered one of the most interesting phases of the season. Chicago still has a look-in, but it is Brooklyn that the National league leaders are watching most attentively at the moment, however.

In the junior organization it also is a third place club—the Boston—that is now in making the strongest showing. The Red Sox, champions of the world, apparently have struck their gait at last, and the American league is taking notice. The team dropped only one game in seven during the week just ended, and wound up by trimming Philadelphia twice in succession. In Cleveland are some distance ahead yet, and the Mack contingent still further away.

In the National league struggle, early in the week the Philadelphians were in a fair way to lose their lead. They had lost a game to St. Louis and three to Chicago when they suddenly braced and won all their other games.

Leaders the Same.

Thursday night the plants were close behind, but the net result for the week was to leave both clubs practically where they were when the record makers' trip opened, three and a half games apart.

On the form shown during the week the Chicago Nationals have little chance of improving its position. The inability of Pittsburg to win consistently is still the puzzle of the league, O'Toole probably being the best game of his big league career last Tuesday, yet his team could not hit Perdue, and lost, 1 to 0.

Boston, after going promisingly for a while, has dropped off a bit. St. Louis and Cincinnati each won but two of the six games played last week.

The brace taken by the New Yorks was a most interesting development for the American league race. Even though the Yanks ended the week with a double defeat by Washington, they have shown that there is fighting and winning power in the club.

Johnson Goes Strong.

The chief burden of the pitching for the pennant is falling, as usual, upon Walter Johnson, and he is bearing up magnificently. He has lost four games, but nothing in his 9 victories to date, can hardly hope to equal Joe Wood's last year's record of 23 victories and five defeats.

Chicago and Cleveland are the only other clubs in the league. The former has a percentage of .57 and the latter a percentage of .57.

"Now, children," said the Sunday school teacher to the juvenile class, "can any of you tell me what an epistle is?"

"I can," answered a little fellow at the foot of the class. "An epistle is the wife of an apostle."

Farms and Farmers

Replanting Cotton Fields.

Where land has been well prepared and liberally fertilized and planted in corn, cotton or other row crop and but a poor stand has been secured, a problem is presented that is often perplexing. Under ordinary circumstances, or when the crop was planted at the usual time and the poor stand becomes almost immediately manifest, every farmer is supposed to know what to do. He may either "plow up and plant over," or he may replant with hand hoes or hand planters. I use the term "plow up and replant" in their colloquial sense, the former meaning to plow up the partial stand secured and plant afresh from end to end of the row, and after getting a good stand again the missing plants only, carefully preserving the plants already in position. It is out of season now to discuss the general question of the expediency of so-called replanting. Some farmers (rather boastfully) aver that they never replant, and I have no doubt that they are telling the truth, of course. In my early experience it was about the universal practice to replant, and I have no doubt that it was a perfect stand. In the great corn states of the middle west, replanting of corn by the use of machinery is common with farmers, as a rule, drop (with machine) three to four grains in a place and let it go at that, neither thinning nor replanting. Some farmers in the Cotton States follow this same system, have decided to follow the methods of the northern prairie farmers, and I am in judgment, for a time, a wise plan to crowd corn on ordinary old upland. Our maize seems to mature far sooner in large stalks and larger ears and are late in maturing, compared with the varieties grown in Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas, and will not bear close crowding, nor three or four plants in a hill.

But, to come back to the problem with which we started out. There seem no ordinary season. On the contrary, it breaks the record of the past. Reports of farmers now living, so far as June weather and cotton conditions are concerned, are as far as I have casually heard from the country—in middle and north Georgia, at least—that they are backward and not promising than I have been able to recall in an experience of nearly sixty years. Corn is doing fairly well—is in good shape, but cotton is late. The plants are small, the stands often beaten, hail stricken and refrigerated, until it is a wonder that it looks as well as it does, when the solstitial summer day (June 21).

Rains are over the country and the prospect is seen to be gloomy for King Cotton. In some fields the plants range in height from one foot of the ground to eight or ten inches; in age from a month to two months. A few entire fields have just been plowed up and planted over, and the stands not replies to the call, but expanded the first two pleaves—the result of hailstorms.

Now, when it is considered that a full crop of cotton may not be reasonably expected when planted later than June 1, unless a very early variety—such as the pure strains of King's improved—shall be planted.

Replant Crops.

In reply to a number of inquiries I have received from speckled corn, or unknown peas, or any variety that is not included in the list of "seeds" for sale, the last season spoke highly of soy-beans as a replant for cotton fields that have been the amendment, thereby, breaking the habit of the plant. The replanter should be careful to cut off the seed, should be harvested for their seed once fifty years ago planted fifty-acres sold in corn, 2x3½, in hills, the seed were dropped by hand and covered with a hoe. The stand that came up was well nigh perfect from the start, but various accidents with that variety of peas endeavored to secure and to maintain an absolutely perfect stand, necessitating careful replanting, with hand-hoes, as late as June 1. But there still exist peculiarities in certain soils, which meant skips of five feet. About the 10th of June I replanted fifty-acres with whippoorwill cow peas. In September or October the ripe peas were picked, going over the field but the one time, and the yield amounted to just fifty bushels from the fifty acres, which I considered a remarkable yield. It should be remembered that I had made repeated efforts to prevent having any vacant hills in which to plant peas.

I do not remember, if I ever knew, how many hills of peas there were, but probably not more than forty or fifty per acre, or 2,000 to 2,500 in the field.

With one of these hand pea planters the work of replanting with peas or beans can be done very rapidly. If the stand is not very bad, an active man might carry two or even more rows at one time and get over ten or twelve acres in a day.

J. J. REDDING.

Griffin, Ga.

SIDE-DRESSING COTTON.

R. R. McLeroy, Griffin, Ga.—Dear Sir: I have about 100 acres of cotton that I planted over, as hail killed it about two weeks ago. This is red land, gravelly, and makes about a bale of cotton per acre.

I used about 900 pounds of fertilizer, 8-2-2, when I planted it. Can you advise me to use anything else after it begins to grow? If so, how much per acre, and at what time?

Any information you can give me as to what is best to try to get a crop on this land will be very much appreciated by me, and any suggestion you may make will thank you for them.

Answer—My best fertilizer for upland cotton is one that analyzes in the proportion of 10—3—3, or 9—2.70—2.70, to the acre. Under ordinary circumstances it come up to about 10—2—2, which may be done by side-dressing with 60 peas to the acre, or 200 pounds of the 9-3-3 and 200 pounds of the 10—2—2 already applied. As I understand you, you have applied 900 pounds per acre at last accounts. Then you should get about 600 pounds of nitrate for the 10 acres.

I would leave it one-third to one-half closer than if the cotton had been planted at the usual time, and put it to a stand at once. Then cultivate shallow every ten days until blooms are abundant.

BAD STAND OF COTTON—WHAT TO DO.

J. W. Howard, Acworth, Ga.—I have 10 acres in cotton planted, but have only about one-half stand, and it only put in a appearance the last two or three days, and I want your good advice as to what to do about this portion of it, whether to plant over the missing places in corn or cotton at this late day. The land was well prepared and I put 700 pounds.

Answer—If I could vie with the 10-acre field I might advise plowing it up (the cotton) and planting it over, but with "half a stand" is rather vague and indefinite. To replant in corn would be to "hold back" the cotton still more. Re-planting with hand hoes would be slow and unsatisfactory. I certainly would not replant in cotton at this late, but would cultivate shallow and fertilize more than some very early variety, such as the best strain of King's improved. There is yet plenty of time to secure a full yield of corn of such variety as White Dent, or Yellow Dent, or Pennsylvania Yellow Flint. Prepare well and fertilizing well—if not already sufficiently fertilized. Cowpeas and soy-beans would be excellent for replanting, and would not seriously hurt the cotton if more be planted nearer than 2½ feet of cotton.

COTTON WILTS AND SHEDS FRUIT.

R. O. Stodghill, Jackson, Ga.—I will appreciate a little advice in regard to some land on which I have cotton.

Have about 400 pounds guano per acre under it. It grows off fast and continues to grow until waist high. Then if there comes a little dry weather it stop growing and the leaf falls off. It makes a good weed every year, and if the season is favorable it makes a fair cotton. I want to know what to do to make it hold better through dry weather. I have never used any fertilizers around cotton.

Answer—It is not practicable for me to intelligently advise in regard to your cotton without some knowledge as to how you prepared the land, the composition of the fertilizer you have used, and you have heretofore used any of that which you applied this year. The fact that the cotton is "waist high" and then stops growing when dry weather occurs and throws off its fruit may be caused by using a manure or commercial fertilizer that carries an excessive percentage of nitrogen, or which the land itself is deficient in phosphoric acid. I do not know the analysis of the fertilizers you have used in the past, nor that of the 400 pounds per acre you have used this year. You should call in another physician the latter generally wants to know what his predecessor had been giving the patient. Failure to use cotton manure—will cause an excessive growth of "weed" and a shortage of fruit. An acre with a good stand of cotton that has grown to the height of 3½ feet should not have more than three-fourths to one bale per acre, and often more.

The wilting and stoppage of growth may be due to shallow preparation and too deep cultivation. The application of nitrate of soda or other nitrogenous ingredient would cure the evil, but rather aggravate it. I believe in applying the right kind of fertilizer, containing a little potash, and top or side-dressings of nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia only during the growing stage of the crop.

TOMATO BLIGHT.

S. A. Kingsbery, Augusta, Ga.—Can you tell me what causes tomato plants to blight, and if there is any remedy for it? I have used fertilizer with acid, lime and potash, but nothing seems to prevent the blight. My plants grow fine and bushy till they blight and then die. Would be glad to know if there is any remedy that will stop it.

Answer—Spray your plants in the seed bed or cold frame, and after transplanting, with Bordeaux mixture, 4—4—50 and 4 pounds of lead every ten days until the fruit is nearly grown. It is too late to cefer spraying until the leaves commence to curl, which is the beginning symptom of the disease.

The Bordeaux mixture is made as follows: Dissolve 4 pounds bluestone in 2 gallons of hot water; strain through a fine sack and dilute to a 50-gallon barrel. Slake 6 pounds of quick lime in a wooden bucket and when ebullition is over add enough to thick white wash and strain it slowly into the bluestone solution in the barrel and add also 6 ounces Paris green. Fill the barrel with water. Always stir thoroughly before filling the sprayer. Of course smaller quantities may be made, say 6 ounces bluestone, 10 ounces slack lime and 1½ ounce Paris green in 5 gallons water.

SPRAYING FRUIT TREES FOR SCALE, IN SUMMER.

H. Hudson, Catania, Ga.—My fruit trees are badly infested with scale, although they were well sprayed in February. I am told it will not do to spray while in full leaf, with sulphur and sulphur, and am afraid if I wait until the leaves drop the scale will have killed the tree.

Answer—It would be dangerous to use the lime-sulphur wash strong enough to be effective in destroying scale after the trees come into leaf. You may fall back on a weak kerosene emulsion, not stronger than 10 per cent oil for peaches and plums, and for apples, not stronger than 15 per cent. I advise that you always test the effect of any spray on the foliage by applying first to only a small part of one or more trees and always apply in a bright sunshiny day.

(1) BLACK ROOT OF COTTON; (2) WORMS AND THUMPS.

W. H. McIntire, Ga.—(1) Can you tell me what to do for my cotton? It is dying. I think with what is called "black root." The roots look black or brown, color and it has no small feeding roots on the main tap root when I pull it up. If you can tell me you will appreciate it very much if you can tell me what to do to keep it from dying.

(2) Do worms cause thumps? My pigs have thumps and have lost some of them. I noticed one of them after he had died. There was a bunch of large worms crawled out of its nostrils. I have been giving them turpentine and copperas. They eat nearly until they are almost dead.

Answer—(1) There is nothing that may be done to prevent or stop dying cotton plants already infected with root-rot. Prevention is the only resource and consists in not planting the infected land in cotton for several years.

(2) There is no relation of cause and effect between thumps or hoose and worms. Young pigs are often infected with a species of worm (strongylus elongatus) that infests and live in the lungs and air passages of the hog kind. When numerous in the bronchial tubes they cause a more or less violent coughing, sometimes resulting in suffocation. Treatment: Feed liberally on the most nutritious food. Inject very small quantities of kerosene oil into the nostrils once or twice a day, and one-fourth to one teaspoonful every dose of the spirits turpentine three times a day may help to expel the worms by way of the intestines. Inhalation of the fumes of carbolic acid, or of burning sulphur, is good. The source of infection is supposed to be the soil.

SIDE-DRESSING CORN.

H. C. Davis.—I want to know how to work my corn. It is about waist high, in rows 4 feet wide, 1 to 2 feet in the drill, and do you think I had better work around in the corn? It is very rich bottoms.

Answer—Corn in 4-foot rows and planted 1 to 2 feet in the drill and waist high, on "very rich bottom," probably does not need any nitrogen, which is the only element that may be profitably applied to any corn so late as the stage in which it will be when you read this. If you have put on neither or no vail nhave applied any fertilizer to date, I cannot venture to advise you application at this season, unless informed as to the above. If you had given your postoffice, enclosed a self-addressed, post-paid envelope and so requested, I would have replied by mail. Your letter was also wrongly addressed to "Atlanta Constitution." My address is Griffin, Ga.

GOITER (PROBABLY) OF COW.

Mrs. J. E. Baker, Enterprise, Ga.—My fine Jersey heifer is all swollen up under the throat. The swelling hangs down from her chin to her neck. She is in good condition and will give milk some time this summer. Please tell me name of disease and remedy, if you know.

Answer—Your very scant description of the condition of your cow is not a sufficient basis for anything more than a suggestive guess. There is one symptom—there being no fever, loss of appetite, or other indication of loss of illness—would suggest that she has a goiter (or strumea) similar to the same affection in human subjects or young animals the proper treatment is usually satisfactory, and I suggest that you try it as follows: Give internally with the food 1½ teaspoonfuls of iodide potasium twice a day; also inject into the swelling (tumor) a solution of 3 grains of iodine dissolved in 1 dram of 25 per cent alcohol, using hypodermic syringe for the purpose. Better have a qualified veterinary surgeon to see the animal.

GREEN PEACHES POISONED COWS.

J. R. Dawkins, Ellerbe, N. C.—My next door neighbor had four fine cows to die inside of an hour a time after eating green peaches on limbs cut from trees on the fence. They were all apparently well when they came to the limbs. Tell us, was that the cause of their deaths?

Answer—The circumstances related have little room for doubt that the eating of the peaches caused the death of the cattle. You are perhaps aware that the kernels of peaches contain a distinct percentage of prusic acid—a very quickly fatal poison. I do not, however, recall any instance of poisoning resulting from cattle eating green peaches.

HOG SICK.

D. B. Jackson, Turnerville, S. C.—Atlanta Constitution: I have a hog that in breathing makes considerable noise with each breath. Seems like he is choked of the air passage obstructed. Will you please tell me what is the trouble, and what if any? The hog is noisy, breathing is of about two months' duration. The hog does not appear sick.

Answer—I can only surmise that the hog is probably suffering from chronic inflammation of nostrils, the result of a neglected cold. Give the hog 8 to 10 grains of iodide of potash in 2 teaspoonfuls of copperas in its food twice a day. In some cases it becomes necessary to inject into the nostrils three times daily a solution of sulphate of zinc, beginning with 4 grains to the fluid dram of water, and increasing rapidly to 20 grains to one ounce.

Fowler's solution of arsenic, say 3 to 5 drops in the food three times a day for a month, is useful.

TETANUS OF MULE (LOCKJAW.)

J. H. R. Morgan, Spring, Ala.—A neighbor has a mule that has had worms as follows: 1 ounce of turpentine in 3-2 pint linseed oil night and morning on an empty stomach for about four days. Followed this on fifth day with 1 quart dose of water containing 1 ounce turpentine. Within a few hours the mule was found to be sick. Is now showing symptoms of lockjaw. Panting very hard, whites of eyes red, nostrils dilated, legs and ears cold, etc. Does not eat. Has a pitiful, sad, forlorn expression of countenance, eyes sunken, at first a tendency to go backward, standing with head spread out somewhat; later a wild expression in the eyes, staggering with tendency to fall as he went forward. These symptoms grew worse until the mule gave every evidence of being entirely crazy. He fell about on his head and continued worse until he died. The following treatment was administered: Anema of warm water, a drench of 4 ounces of whisky in 1 pint of water, same within an hour containing 2 ounces sweet spirits of niter; two hours later another dose of spirits of niter, etc.

Answer—A portion of the water was drawn from the bladder by Catcher mustard plaster on side of chest, fly blister on loins and head. None of these remedies seemed to have much effect. Do you think treatment of turpentine and linseed oil caused death of mule? If not, then what did it do? Is really safe to give to any and all stock affected with worms, your prescription of 1 ounces turpentine in 1-2 pint linseed oil night and morning for three or four days, to be followed by a quart as a physic? Mule had shown no symptoms of anything serious, only was not doing very well and had not shedded his hair well. Please indicate also what treatment might have been effective. I am very respectively yours.

Answer—In reply to yours of the 19th. The standard dose of spirits of turpentine for an adult horse or mule is 2 ounces or twice as much as your neighbor gave his mule. When spirits of turpentine is given in very large doses, or often repeated doses for a considerable time of less than 2 ounces, the result may be strangury, or stoppage of the urine or passing it in drops and great pain. But the symptoms are totally different from those you describe. I consider the regular dose of 2 ounces (for worms) is by no means dangerous to the life of an animal. The mule's death symptoms manifested by the mule indicated with hardly the shadow of a doubt that the disease of which he died was tetanus, commonly called "lockjaw." It held its tail out straight and stiff that would be conclusive evidence. Tetanus is generally fatal—even when a skilled veterinarian is called in at once, but an animal will occasionally recover. Tetanus antitoxin injected hypodermically is the remedy, but it must be administered in the early stages to be effective. Tetanus is* a germ disease and is nearly always caused by a rail prick, especially in the foot, or by a nail puncture may cause it, or at least permit the entrance of the germ. The disease may not develop for even a month or more after the wound was inflicted, or until after it has been entirely healed. It sometimes followed by tetanus, even after the wound has entirely healed.

CORDON OF INSURGENTS ABOUT HUERTA'S TROOPS

Federals Near Guaymas Are Said to Be Completely Surrounded.

Nogales, Ariz., June 22.—General Ojeda's federal column, advancing toward Hermosillo, is surrounded completely by insurgent state troops, said today official state advices received here. It is asserted the federals' armored troop train was standing between burned bridges and that the government troops were on the defensive.

Fifty federal soldiers who left Guaymas to reinforce Ojeda's group were met and routed by state troops near Empalme in fighting late yesterday.

Nothing was said in today's dispatches regarding the operations of Didier Masson, the aviator, who yesterday dropped bombs over Guaymas and the federal gunboats lying in the harbor. Advices received here said the fighting had not been continued since dark last night.

Federal officials said that Masson has had no success with his war biplane and deny the report that he flew over Guaymas harbor. They say the French aviator only once within the last week succeeded in rising to a sufficient height to attempt flight over the federal lines and on this occasion it was said a hot machine gun fire drove him back.

Mondragon to Leave Mexico.

Mexico City, June 22.—General Mondragon, who recently resigned as minister of war, will leave tomorrow for Belgium on a military mission, the exact nature of which has not been revealed. He was the right-hand man of General Felix Diaz in the operations which brought about the overthrow of the Madero government.

The danger of an attack on Saltillo has been lessened by the defeat of the rebels 10 miles to the south. In a report received from General Carlos Lozos, the rebel dead are estimated at fifty.

The war department made the statement tonight that there had been no battle of any importance to the south of Hermosillo, although two small encounters had been fought, in both of which the rebels were repulsed.

JOINT MANEUVERS FOR ARMY AND NAVY

Washington, June 22.—Plans are under way for joint army and navy defense exercises to be held on Long Island Sound and Narragansett Bay during the week beginning August 4. This is the first time such a program has been arranged since 1905. Major William Chamberlin, coast artillery corps, has been designated to perfect preparations for the event, and will reach Washington tomorrow for Fort Monroe.

Troops for mail the Atlantic coast stations probably will participate in the exercises and Rear Admiral Badger, commanding the Atlantic fleet, will designate ships to take part. It is expected that a majority of the vessels of the fleet will have a part in the program at some time during the week.

8,000 GARMENT WORKERS TO GO OUT ON STRIKE

Cincinnati, June 22.—Unless unforeseen concessions are made by either side, 8,000 garment workers of this city will begin a strike tomorrow morning for a 48-hour week for the same wages now being paid for a 54-hour week.

The Manufacturers' association has offered to compromise with a 50-hour week for union workers and 52 hours for non-union labor. The local organizers of the union claim tonight that the compromise will be accepted on Tuesday and insist that it was only through the efforts of Industrial Workers of the World that the strike was voted for.

SEVEN MEN ARE KILLED IN A FREIGHT WRECK

Clinton, Iowa, June 22.—Seven men were killed and another probably was fatally injured in the wreck of a freight train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad near here today. The freight train speeding down a 4-mile hill crashed into a gravel train. Both engines were wrecked and 28 cars were piled on the demolished gravel train. The victims have not been identified.

None of either crew was hurt.

BRAZIL WANTS TRADE WITH UNITED STATES

Chicago, Ill., June 22.—Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs Dr. Lauro Muller, spend an active day here today getting ready to leave tonight for San Francisco. Several changes in the plans of the South American guest, who is here promoting relations between Brazil and the United States, were announced before his departure for the west.

Tomorrow is to be spent in Omaha and a stop of one day will be made in Denver. After several days in San Francisco, Dr. Muller and his party will return to New York by a southerly route, stopping at St. Louis and Pittsburg. After attending the Paulist fathers church Dr. Muller met a representation of coffee roasters to discuss means of arriving at better relations between coffee planters and distributors. A possible outcome of the meeting it was said would be the establishment of a bureau of information in the trade here.

"While Brazil is particularly anxious to take advantage of the world's marking in beef, cotton and coffee," said, "the visit here is for the purpose of establishing better relations in all lines of trade.

"The United States is not getting its share of Brazil's trade. In fact, it is getting hardly any."

There is not a first-class steamship line between the United States and Rio. There is no United States banking agency in Rio, although nearly every European country has such an agency.

"We would like the big houses to establish agencies in Rio—automobiles for instance. South Americans are interested in American automobiles, but they are almost unknown there. When an inquiry is made of an automobile manufacturer the reply is a catalogue, which most likely goes into a waste basket."

Dr. Miller and his party left for Omaha at 10:45 o'clock tonight.

SPANIARDS ENRAGED BY WAR IN MOROCCO

Cerbere, France, June 22.—Advices from Barcelona say the renewal of fighting in Morocco, which resulted in violent rioting at Barcelona in 1909, is again arousing the socialistic and anarchistic elements, and the situation is beginning to be disquieting.

A stormy anti-war meeting at Barcelona last night was followed by a collision between police and the agitators. Firearms were used on both sides, and several persons were shot. Again today there were several violent clashes, the police on two occasions firing at the mob.

The authorities, alive to the dangerous possibilities of the situation, have confined the troops to barracks and taken every precaution.

MESSAGE MARATHON FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

Washington, June 22.—Standing on the front porch of the white house at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, President Wilson will place in the hands of a boy scout a message that is to be kept moving day and night until four days three and a half hours later it is placed in the hands of Mayor Carter Harrison at Grant park, Chicago. Scouts will relay the message all the way, covering the 778.7 miles at an average speed of almost eight miles an hour. More than 100 runners were accepted and each one will have but a short distance to cover. The Panama-Olympic carnival meet at Grant park is to be opened next Saturday by the delivery of the message from President Wilson.

RUMORS OF DAMAGE TO THE PANAMA CANAL

Panama, June 22.—Numerous alarming rumors of damage have gained currency as a result of the slide that recently developed in the cut-off wall of the northwest wing of the Miraflores locks of the Panama canal. One report had it that the gate had pulled away some portions of their supporting masonry, and that the cost to demolish and rebuild the damage structure would be $1,500,000.

The canal engineers say the crack is only a superficial one, and that it probably was due to a slight settlement of the masonry.

ENGINEER IS KILLED IN ALABAMA WRECK

Birmingham, Ala., June 22.—Engineer Russell K. Ayers was killed and the fireman and two trainmen injured when a Frisco wrecking train split a switch 2 miles from Jasper early tonight. The wrecker had gone to Carbon Hill to replace some freight cars on the track, and was returning to Birmingham when the accident occurred.

Brazilian Statesman Is Welcomed

DR. LAURO MULLER, BRAZILIAN MINISTER, AND DUDLEY FIELD MALONE, PRESIDENT WILSON'S REPRESENTATIVE.

Dr. Lauro Muller, minister of foreign affairs of Brazil, who is now on a tour of this country in company with other Brazilians, was given a cordial welcome in New York. Among those who make up the entourage of the ambassador are Dr. Hello Lobo, Captain Antonio Sanpais, Euclides Hermes da Fonseca, military aide and son of the president of the Brazilian republic. Dr. de Aquino, Leopoldo Moreira, Alberto da Ipanema Moreira, naval aide, and Captain Tasso Costa, commander of the dreadnought Minas Geraes, on which the visitors arrived at Norfolk June 10 on the first leg of their journey. Dudley Field Malone, assistant secretary of state, is accompanying the party as the official representative of President Wilson. The formal reception for the South Americans in N. Y. began when Mayor Gaynor paid his official call. This was returned later at city hall, and then followed a tour of the city in automobiles and a luncheon, at which the party were the guests of the American Manufacturers' Export association at the Hotel Plaza. The first day's activities ended with a dinner with the Pan-American society at the Knickerbocker. The visitors then planned to go to West Point to inspect the military academy, making the trip up the Hudson river in a torpedo destroyer. After a banquet given by the New York chamber of commerce the party's plans called for a visit to Boston. The Brazilian minister is repaying the visit of Elihu Root to South America when he was secretary of state. An elaborate program of official functions in many cities has been arranged for the distinguished guest while he is in this country.

Minister to Cuba

WILLIAM E. GONZALES

William E. Gonzales, editor of The State, of Columbia, S. C., who was appointed minister to Cuba, is well equipped for that post. His father was the famous General Ambrosia Jose Gonzales, who was Cuban by birth and a journalist of that country. General Gonzales' life was a stormy and eventful one. He took a prominent part in the uprising of Cubans against the Spanish in 1848, and since that time had been practically an exile in America. He engaged in the Lopez expedition and had a prominent part in other movements to free Cuba. He served with honor as a confederate general. It was from the general that his son received much of his wide information concerning Cuba. The new minister is one of the south's noted editors.

As Others Hear Us.

(From Judge.)

Placing the family phonograph on the library table, Mrs. Ravenyelp said to her husband:

"I have an odd record here, Henry, and I want to see if you can guess what it is."

When a weird succession of sounds began to come from the horn of the instrument Ravenyelp knitted his brow and tried to identify them.

"It's a buzz saw plowing through a knot," he ventured.

"Guess again," said Mrs. Ravenyelp.

"A slide trombone in full cry?"

"Hardly."

"Cat concert?"

"Nope."

"Hoot owl with its toes in a trap?"

Smiling grimly, Mrs. Ravenyelp shook her head in the negative.

"Give it up," finally said Ravenyelp; "but as one last guess I'll say that it sounds very much like a siren whistle with the pip."

"I will agree that it is as bad as all you have named," Mrs. Ravenyelp remarked, "and I hope it will save a lot of argument in the future."

"But what is it?" insisted Ravenyelp.

"It's a record I made in your bedroom the other night," replied Mrs. Ravenyelp, "to prove to you that you really do snore in your sleep and to let you know just how awful it sounds."

"They told her, if elected, she would become a member of the common council, and you know how particular she is."

Housing and Health.

In much of the current discussion of housing and city-planning the need of a basis of observed fact is apparent. A recent analysis by Chalmers, the medical officer of Glasgow, of conditions in Glasgow is an important contribution to the difficult problem of the relation of house-room to death-rate. An examination of the age distribution of the population of Glasgow showed that a considerable proportion of the difference in the death rate record for dwellings of various sizes could be ascribed to the large number of children in smaller houses. The number of children under 5 years constituted 19 per cent of the total population living in 1-room houses, 14 per cent in 2-room, 7 per cent in 3-room and only 4 per cent in houses of four rooms and upward. Further analysis, however, showed that simple differences in age distribution would not explain altogether the difference in death-rate in houses of various sizes. Assuming a standard age and sex distribution, it was found that a population of 100,000 persons in the Glasgow death rate would yield 2,024 deaths room, 1,263 in 3-room and 1,032 in 2-room, 1,262 in 3-rooms and 1,032 in houses of four or more rooms, while in institutions the deaths would number 3,643. With regard to the causes of death the problem becomes very complex. In infectious diseases, including pneumonia, the higher rate fell on the smaller houses. Diseases of the nervous system in adults, on the other hand, were apparently more prevalent among the inhabitants of the larger houses. Chalmers regards the evidence as showing that the children born in the smaller houses are from the start at a serious physical handicap which is related to some extent to the food supply. This could be traced to the prevalence in the groups of various forms of disease of the digestive organs. "In later life the influence of the birth surroundings did not wholly disappear, but these were obscured by the influences of adult life, which, as in the case of diseases of the nervous system, tended to become degenerative in type, and appeared more frequently among the occupants of houses of large size." Whether or not these particular conclusions are found to be generally valid, it will be recognized, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, that the careful scrutiny and statistical analysis on which they are based is the only method likely to lead to permanent results. In a word, it is not a simple task to determine the influence of housing on health. Comparison of death rates without reference to age, sex, race or economic condition may be quite misleading.

The Navy—A Great College.

(Hon. Franklin D. Rosevelt, in National Monthly for June.)

The navy of today is very different from the navy of the days of Paul Jones or Thomas Truxton or of Stephen Decatur. Its personnel is made upon longer of deep sea tars. Our men come today as much from the Mississippi valley or from the plains of the west as from the seaboard states. It is a national institution in every way. Our battleships are no longer the great frigates propelled by lofty clouds of canvas. They are artisans of two-score different trades, and directed by skilled teachers and leaders. They are institutions of practical learning, forming as a whole a greater university for the people.

A navy exists primarily as an instrument of protection for a nation so long as such protection is necessary among nations. And a navy must be conducted in times of peace with this first in mind. But at the same time it must exist with a view to serving as far as possible the economic advantage of the nation. Our aim should be to recognize that herein the American nation has a university of the first magnitude, an educating force which can and should be used to train our young men to useful occupations, to clear thinking and to high service.

AS AN AUTO BANDIT WOMAN IS ARRESTED

Chicago, June 22.—Mrs. Irene Brunner, 25 years old, was arrested today as the latest auto bandit, charged with holding up a woman's furnishing store late Saturday night.

According to Miss Elizabeth Foley, owner of the store, the woman bought a handkerchief and while she was being waited on, drew a revolver from a handbag, held up the owner and two women clerks and made away with $100.

Mrs. Brunner is the wife of Joseph J. Brunner, owner of an automobile garage, to which her car was traced. A chauffeur in Brunner's employ admitted that he had driven Mrs. Brunner to the store.

CINCINNATI ICELESS BECAUSE OF STRIKE

Cincinnati, O., June 22.—The drop in temperature here today prevented general suffering as a result of the strike of the drivers, helpers, engineers and firemen of the ice manufacturing plants. Both sides held conferences today, but no evidences of concessions were forthcoming. The lines were as tightly drawn as on previous days.

City officials succeeded in getting in several carloads from nearby cities, which was distributed on physicians' orders, but the general public today went without ice. It was reported tonight that the manufacturers would attempt to operate tomorrow with non-union labor.
